Carole Classic queen Beats the odds

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When 17-year-old Wilmington native Kara Irving was introduced to the crowd last Thursday night no longer was she scared and petrified. It was at the Carole Classic football game played at Connolly Field in Woburn.

She could now enjoy life, without worrying if it was going to end soon. "I was scared that I was never going to get better," she said about being in remission since August 1996 with Ewings Cancer. "I couldn't have done it without my family and friends. Their support really benefited me."

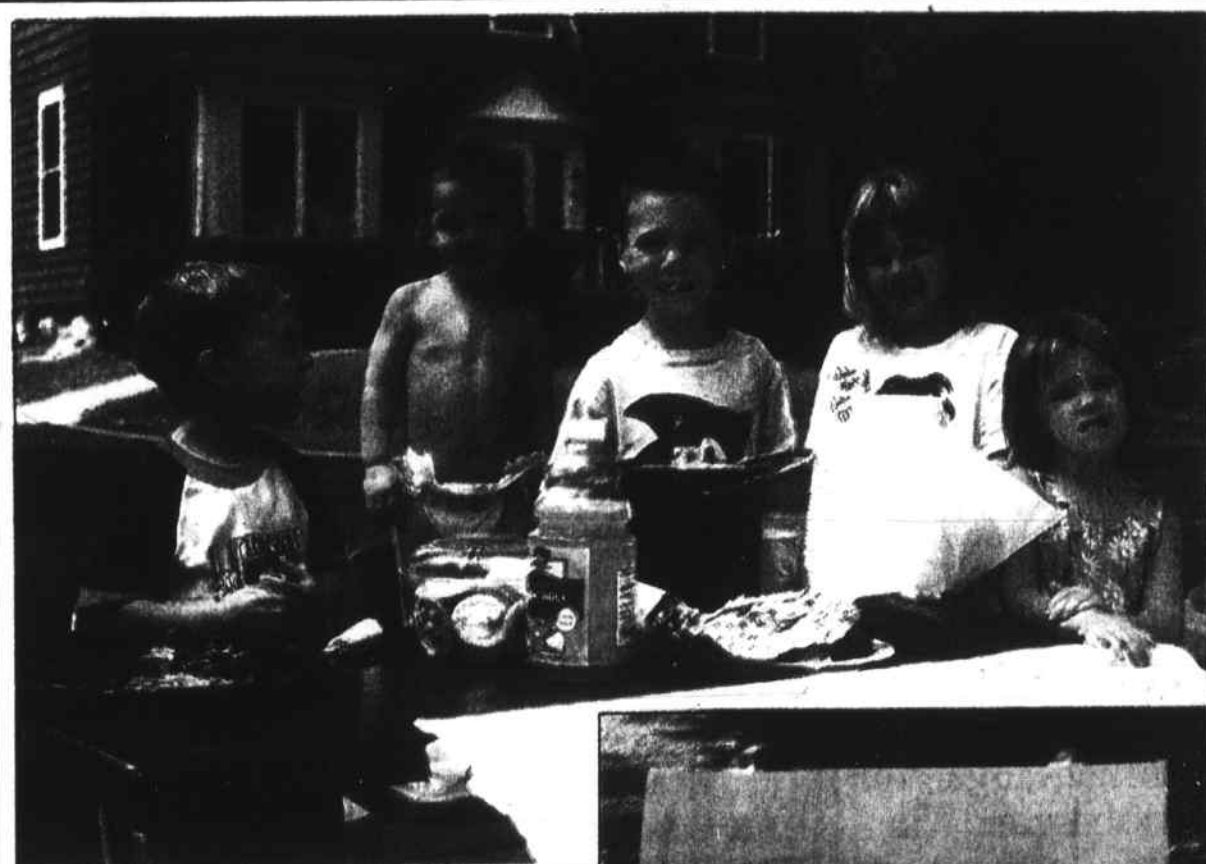

On October 23, 1995 just at the end of her first soccer season at WHS as a freshman, Irving was diagnosed with Ewings, a form of bone cancer. From that horrible day until late August the following year, Irving went through many horrible days. The chemotherapy and the many thoughts of not seeing another day shadowed her always.

"The chemo was bad... really bad," she said. "I'm one of the fortunate ones. It depends on what you have. It's different for everyone and some people get luckier than others. That's unfortunate."

Now in remission for nearly two years, Irving was seen on Thursday enjoying the football festivities on the sidelines where the Merrimack Valley All-Stars shut out the Middlesex team, 33-0. She was named the Game Queen. Each year a different woman or girl is honored for beating the disease. The Carole Classic was initiated by the Eagan family after their daughter, Carole succumbed to cancer. The duties of being a Game Queen include speaking in front of all the football players at a breakfast, and being honored before the game and picking out the raffle winner.

"It was an honor," she said. "A real honor. It was a great game, but it was one sided. I really wasn't rooting for any team since Wilmington doesn't play (in the MVC) anymore. I had so much fun. I really didn't pay much attention to the game because I got to see my friends from the

Local Iowa testing

Reading test results show need for improvement

WILMINGTON - Results from the 1998 Iowa Test of Basic Skills reveal that Wilmington students are trailing behind students in reading through out the state.

The Department of Education released the results from the state third grade reading test given last April to 77,598 students. Wilmington students scored in the 69th percentile. This was a slight drop from ranking in the 72 percentile in 1997. Tewksbury students scored in the 64 percentile. Of area schools Winchester's test results were at the top. The students scored in the .80th percentile, meaning, as a whole, they were in the top 20 percent statewide, scoring higher than 80 percent of students from other communities. Woburn students were in the 76th percentile and Burlington was in the 75th percentile. Massachusetts scored in the 64th percentile nationwide.

A total of two hundred ninety-five communities and charter schools were involved in the testing, which tests students in vocabulary and reading comprehension.

Woburn Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum, Dr. Louise Nolan used another way to compare the scores. She displayed the total percentage of students in each community and charter school scoring as either "proficient" or "advanced" readers.

The state rates students at one of four levels: pre-reader, basic, proficient and advanced.

Using the state test data, Nolan crunched numbers and listed

Good-bye "lane drop"

From here to New Hampshire

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - The Massachusetts Highway Department is hoping to make traveling on I-93 a little bit easier.

In September, workers are expected to begin construction of the proposed transportation improvements for I-93. The project is designed to ease traffic congestion during the daily peak hours from Wilmington to the New Hampshire state border. "The project area begins just north of the I-93/Route 125 interchange, where I-93 narrows from 8 lanes to 6 lanes, and continues north to the New Hampshire border," reads the Massachusetts Highway Department's public notice.

The towns included in the I-93 stretch are Wilmington, Tewksbury, Andover and Methuen. Locally these improvements should make the commute home easier for Wilmington and Tewksbury residents. The infamous "lane drop" will be eliminated during rush hour.

Members of the Massachusetts Highway Department and Vanasse Hangen Brustlin, Inc., (VHB) met in Wilmington Town Hall on July 27 to discuss the proposed project.

Peter Kutrubes, with the Massachusetts Highway Department, said the idea for the project developed from a meeting in May between representatives from New Hampshire and Massachusetts. "They wanted to address the traffic concerns on the I-93 corridor," expressed Kutrubes. "One of the things that came out of the meeting was a commitment by the Massachusetts Highway Department to move forward with the project."

According to John Bechard, with VHB, they will be converting the existing shoulder lanes to general purpose lanes. The shoulder lanes going north on I-93 will be open from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. and 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. traveling south.

"These hours are consistent with other breakdown shoulder lanes in the state," said Bechard. One area readers are probably familiar with is Rt 128 west of Boston.

To accommodate for the use of shoulder lanes as travel lanes, Bechard stated that they will construct 24 emergency turnouts beyond the edge of existing pavement to provide refuge for disabled vehicles. The turnouts will be 16 feet wide and 710 feet in total length. They are planned approximately every .half mile along I-93 from Wilmington to the NH border, except in locations where there are exit ramps. He confirmed that the work will not

Ear biting incident leads to jail time

WILMINGTON - An 18 year old Billerica man has been sentenced to 2 years in the Billerica House of Correction in connection with an incident at a Wilmington house party September 6th, 1997.

Kevin Bellanger, was found guilty of assault and battery and not guilty on a charge of mayhem.

Despite published reports in other newspapers the District Attorney's office has confirmed that Mr. Bellanger is indeed in the Billerica House of Correction serving 1 year of the sentence. He was not sentenced only to probation.

Explosion heard for miles around

Debris found one mile away

by STU NEILSON

At 1 am Saturday you can't expect a lot of spectators, unless you have a very large bang. That was the case as a warehouse in Ballardvale in Andover near the junction of the town lines between Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington. People in Wilmington and Tewksbury were awakened by the blast. E-911 boards lit up for twenty miles with reports the noise and rampant speculation as to its location. Everyone assumed it was a lot closer to their house than it really was.

But a mile away was close enough to receive debris. The blast was determined to originate from a concrete and metal tank holding chemicals in a River Street, Andover warehouse, not far from the Gillette plant that can be seen from Rt 93.

Hazardous materials teams and investigators from the Department of Environmental Protection spent several hours at the site evaluating the chemicals at the scene, however no threat to the public was found.

RMLD phone system struck by lightning

READING - The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) was one of the many unfortunate property owners in the area who dealt directly with nature's wrath during Thursday July 23rd's severe rain storm. A telephone pole behind the RMLD property was struck by lightning. This resulted in the loss of more than half of the RMLD's phone system for several hours. According to RMLD Public Relations Manager Ann Marie Brennick, the lightning strike affected the computer driven telephone system, causing telephones to fail.

The telephone system was back in service by the end of the business day, according to Brennick.

IN NORTH WILMINGTON the sky was falling Saturday morning. These North Wilmington residents were busy gathering souvenirs, but this chunk of concrete was too big to pocket. It's hard to judge distance walking down the railroad track at 2 a.m. but the guess is near to a mile from the scene of the blast!

Suspects in Credit Card Ring Arrested

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
TEWKSBURY - After a two month investigation, police arrested three men in connection with a stolen credit card ring at Northmeadow Health & Racquet Club.

Police Detective Robert Budryk said that Nicholas Ragno, 34, of 261 Webster St., East Boston, Steven Angier, 38, of 1 Rocky Ridge Lane, Billerica, and Shawn Craig, 31, of 131 Winthrop Ave., Lowell, were arrested last week in conjunction with the thefts.

According to police, twelve separate larceny incidents of credit card thefts have been reported from Northmeadow. At least twenty stolen cards from Northmeadow were used to purchase over $80,000 in merchandise at stores from the New Hampshire border to the south shore.

Det. Budryk said that the lockers would be broken into, credit cards removed from wallets without disturbing any other items, and the lockers closed and re-locked. "They would remove the credit cards and leave the wallet and other items in the lockers untouched,"

Det. Budryk said. He indicated that discovery of the missing cards was not until the owner was ready to use them for purchases. The credit cards could be maxed out before the owner reported them stolen.

Most of the purchases on the stolen credit cards were for gift certificates from grocery stores or lap-top computers and laser printers from computer stores, police say. The gift certificates, some as high as $600 each, and expensive computer equipment could then be sold on the street for a fraction of their price bringing in a substantial profit to the thieves. "There's a lot of money being made," Det. Budryk said.

Det. Budryk said that Ragno was captured on video tape last Wednesday attempting to use the stolen credit cards to purchase goods at the CompUSA computer store in Cambridge. He was also on the video at the Allston Stop & Shop attempting to purchase gift certificates valued at $600 with the credit cards at another time. Ragno was arrested on Thursday, July 16th and charged by Cambridge police with uttering a forged instrument, possessing a stolen credit card, larceny over $250, and forgery.

While off-duty Friday, Det. Budryk visited Northmeadow and observed suspect Angier in the club's locker room with a screwdriver bulging out of his pocket. Angier then attempted to pry open a locker with the screwdriver, but fled when he realized he was being watched. Det. Budryk pursued Angier out of the building. Angier jumped into a car driven by the third suspect, Craig, but before they could speed off, Det. Budryk was able to detain them. He had a civilian dial 9-1-1 and police arrived on the scene within minutes. The getaway car, which turned out to be stolen, contained additional screwdrivers and a hypodermic needle.

Angier and Craig were arrested on Friday and charged with receiving stolen property over $250, receiving stolen property $250 or less, and possession of burglarious tools. In addition, Angier was charged with injuring a depository. "We are pleased to put a dent in the ring, but won't be satisfied until more arrests are made," Det. Budryk said. "The investigation is ongoing and more arrests are expected."

Editor's note: This story was printed in the Tewksbury edition of the Town Crier last week, however it was not printed in its entirety.

It's YOUR Money
by Joyce Brisbois

ROTH IRA-A SUPER COLLEGE FUND

A Roth IRA can be an ideal vehicle to save for your children's education. It's more flexible than other plans, with higher investment limits--and you can keep the money in your own name.

Unlike an Education IRA, with a $500-a-year limit and tight controls on how the money can be used, a Roth can grow by $2,000 a year ($4,000 for a couple filing jointly). Rather than the limited options of a prepaid college tuition plan, a Roth offers a wider range of possibilities--even the no-college choice.

Contributions to a Roth can be withdrawn without penalty at any time, but you can't touch earnings for the first five years. Then there's a 10 percent penalty on earnings taken out unless you're over 59 1/2 or the money is used to pay college bills.

To qualify for a Roth, a couple should have an adjusted gross income of no more than $150,000 to $160,000; singles, $95,000 to $115,000. (Contributions start to phase out at the lower figure.)

Miceli comments on local impact State Budget brings benefits to Tewksbury and Wilmington

BOSTON - Representative Miceli and the other members of the legislature worked diligently and enacted the Fiscal Year 1999 Budget. This solid financial package included a massive tax cut totaling $770 million. "This is the largest single tax cut in the history of the Commonwealth," notes Miceli, "I am very happy to see the money going back to the hardworking men and women of the district. The Budget also includes funding increases in many areas including, but not limited to education, public safety and elder services.

"I am pleased to see that my colleagues and I have once again made educating the youth of the Commonwealth a top priority," said Miceli. The Budget includes an additional quarter of a billion dollars in Fiscal Year 1999 education reform funding which will go directly to the cities and towns, as well as, a $34 million increase in lottery aid, also used to fund local education programs. "Specifically, this means an increase in educational funding to both Wilmington and Tewksbury," explains Miceli.

Education spending within the budget also includes other major highlights that directly and positively impact both Wilmington and Tewksbury. The budget increases the minimum aid to students from $75 to $100, meets all current school building assistance commitments and allows $43.9 million for 58 new school construction projects for Fiscal Year 2000. With new schools being constructed in both Wilmington and Tewksbury, it is important to note that this additional money will speed up the state reimbursement process.

The budget also completely funds the reimbursement for special education residential school placements, the cost of educating children who are deemed wards of the state and increases the amount paid by the Commonwealth for its share of the Charter School tuition costs.

Under the Education Reform legislation passed in 1993, the process of statewide achievement tests for students was designed. The FY '99 Budget creates a new $20 million program to fund school district efforts to develop or enhance academic support for those students who score poorly on statewide achievement tests.

Importantly, the Legislature's commitment to education does not end at Grade 12. This budget also ensures that no student who desires to attend a community college will pay more than $500 per year and it increases the state scholarship account by $15.6 million.

"As a strong advocate for education I am pleased to see an increase in state funding for programs which will further enhance the opportunities of the young people in our district to learn, access academic assistance if needed, and prepare to be hard-working/successful adults."

Representative Miceli and his colleagues in the legislature have also addressed the importance of public safety programs by increasing the funding levels in this area. The budget sets aside $4 million for the cost of the sex offender registry, which is currently awaiting legislative and judicial action. Community Policing will also see an increase in funding by $2.5 million. Another highlight in the area of public safety includes the complete funding of the Commonwealth's obligations to cities and towns relative to the Quinn Bill. This legislation pertains to educational incentives for law enforcement officers. "My commitment to public safety is unyielding," said Miceli, "Through this increase in law enforcement education and community policing, our neighborhoods will continue to be wonderful places to raise families."

The quality of life of the elderly residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury has always been a top priority of Rep. Miceli. The FY '99 Budget echoes his long running sentiment. Many programs affecting the seniors have been expanded. The Commonwealth's elder home care program has been expanded by $5 million dollars. This is extremely important at a time when the Federal Government is dictating severe cuts in many home care services. The very popular meals-on-wheels program will receive an additional $500 thousand and the local councils on aging will see an increase in funding by $1 million. The service coordinator program was also given an increase of $100 thousand. This money will be used to provide important housing assistance to an additional 1,700 elderly citizens who live in public housing.

"These services are extremely important and necessary to many elders in our district," said Miceli, "Unfortunately, without the home care program, meals-on-wheels, and the local councils on aging, many of these men and women may be lonely and in need of assistance. My record shows that I have always fought hard to increase funding for elder services and I will continue to do so."

Overall, the Fiscal Year 1999 Budget, including increases in education, public safety and elder services, coupled with the $770 million in tax relief sends a great deal of money back to the individual communities of the Commonwealth. "I am very pleased to see that this comprehensive financial package will in many ways benefit Wilmington and Tewksbury directly," concluded Miceli.

Ten couples will be going to the movies courtesy of the Town Crier. Look on page 11 of this paper for the list of winners and to see how you can win tickets to Showcase Cinema in Woburn!

Letters to the Editor

Farewell from Senator O'Brien

Dear Editor:
As you know, I will be leaving the Massachusetts State Senate for a job in private industry. It has been a tremendous honor to serve the people of Tewksbury, Andover, Dracut, and Lawrence for over five years.

In April of 1992, then State Senator Patricia McGovern announced that she would not be seeking reelection. I announced my candidacy for that position and, with the help of so many people throughout the community, I won both a hard fought primary election and general election. I was ultimately sworn in to the State Senate in January of 1993.

Since that time, I have had the opportunity to work on many issues of vital importance to our region. I played an integral role in the passage of innovative Welfare Reform Legislation, the Raytheon Tax Legislation, School Safety Legislation and the Electric Utility Restructuring Act.

In Lawrence, I am proud of my role in paving the way for new and innovative leadership for the Lawrence Public Schools. I am honored to count myself among a small number of people who knew that the children of Lawrence deserved a better education than they had been receiving for the past 10 years. No other public policy initiative is more important to the revitalization of Lawrence than the renewal of a local commitment to educational excellence.

In Andover, I worked with state and local officials to make infrastructure improvements that are necessary to support the town's tremendous growth. The improvements include the changes that are being made to River Road, the Burt Road extension and safety improvements along Route 125. I also played an important role in ensuring that Raytheon stayed in Andover by leading the fight in the Senate for favorable tax treatment for manufacturers.

In Dracut, I have worked to secure funding for the expansion of the Dracut High School, the creation of a Senior Center Safety Zone and a zero interest loan program for sewer improvements.

In Tewksbury, I worked with the town to provide state land and funding for a new state-of-the-art library. I am also proud to have worked to provide funds for new sidewalks, funds to alleviate the traffic problems at North Street and Route 133, and the support necessary to transfer the Tewksbury Hospital School of Nursing to its new home at Northern Essex Community College.

In late May, I received an offer from an energy company, Sithe New England, to join their team as they invest over one billion dollars in the construction of new, clean power plants in Massachusetts. This investment will result in the creation of over 4,000 construction and operating jobs in our state. This offer came almost four weeks after the April 28, 1998 filing deadline for the State Senate election.

I have withdrawn my name from that election and now a well qualified group of candidates is seeking election to the State Senate. I wish all of them the best of luck in that race. An open and competitive race for this State Senate seat among tremendously qualified candidates will, in the end, provide the citizens of this district with the best representation possible.

To you and all of the citizens of these great communities, thank you for giving me the opportunity to serve. I truly believe in the ideals of a citizen legislature and, therefore, I will continue to be active in my community as I pursue a new business opportunity and continue with my wife, Kathleen, to raise two wonderful children.

Gratefully,
John D. O'Brien, Jr.

Where did that story go?

Dear Editor:

Today I received my issue of the "Town Crier" on time as usual. In the early evening I sat down to read the front page with "Party crasher gets two years," only to find no "Party Crashers" on that page and hunt 'till I found it on page 6W. O.K. anyone can make a mistake once. So I went on to read about "Rt. 38" and Being a Jim Miceli fan, I wanted to read the article and was dismayed to find page 10 didn't contain the end of this article either.

I went through to first part of the paper twice and was really upset because I thought the end of the article was left out of the paper entirely including the sports section (which I don't usually read) and find on page 16W, the end of "Rte. 38" article.

Now, one error, two errors and I already knew the Garfield article was on Pg. 6W, not the page listed so that's three errors on the front page.

Now, I realize running a newspaper is busy work, but you need a proof reader. If you have one, check out his or her glasses.

I love the Crier and read it each week, but I really don't like searching for the end of front page articles.

Sincerely,
Norma L. Powers

Confusion reigned last week

During the summer months things tend to get a little slow around our sleepy little town, so we open the dungeon doors and let a few people take their vacation. This is also a time to try new things. We are working on improving the technology of our newspaper production. If not that you would see it, if it went right, but it didn't so you did! What you saw was an error in 6 characters. Normally we have a few errors in spelling, a couple dozen grammatical errors (spell check doesn't know their, there and they're are different words) and maybe a misidentified tot in the paper.

By the time the errors were caught more than half the papers had already been printed. The fellow who slipped was burying his head and we all had egg on our faces. We won't be making that mistake again, soon, we hope. But we're only human and we will make others. That you can't take to the bank. Ed.

...sold Paradise and put up a parking lot!

Dear Editor:

This is an open letter to Wilmington Town Selectmen: Michael Newhouse, Chairman, Robert Cain, Michael McCoy, Daniel Wandell, James Rooney and Town Manager Michael Cair.

I am Lorraine Caggiano. My husband and I own Action Glass Company. We have been located at 411 Main Street for 22 years and throughout those years we have built up great friendships and rapport with the people of Wilmington.

We attended the May 26 and the July 13 Selectman meetings where the representatives of the MBTA were present.

We can truly appreciate the concern of you and the citizens of Wilmington to improve the town center, but two points of interest brought up at the July 13 meeting should be considered with great concern to the Town of Wilmington. One would be the loss of tax revenue and the other would be the increased assessment the town might have to pay the MBTA. Also, I can not truly believe that a "parking lot" in the middle of any town is an "improvement."

There are buildings, granted, that may not be in the best condition around ours, but just over the track across from Wilmington Builders there are also three buildings that I would consider very dilapidated condition. I hope your plans for "improvement" includes their renovations.

You, gentlemen, along with the people from the MBTA, hold the fate and destiny of the individuals and businesses that will either be displaced or have to close completely, in your vote.

I also realize some of you feel a "parking lot" is going to be for the greater good of the majority, but somehow the picture of asphalt and parked cars, even if there are a few trees and bushes, is not my idea of beautification.

You may realize that my words are coming through to you as emotional, but we have had many customers who have become friends in the 21 years that Action Glass has been in Wilmington and they do not want us to leave Wilmington. The prospect of leaving Wilmington and begin excluded from this community and the people who live here is very disturbing to us.

In closing, I must say, you as individuals are citizens of Wilmington, will have to live for many years with the decisions you make on August 10. I ask you to consider it carefully. Talk to the people of Wilmington who have elected you and will reelect you. They should be your sounding board for the final decisive vote.

Thank you for listening to me and I will pray your vote does in the great beyond future benefit the great majority of Wilmington.

Sincerely,
Lorraine Caggiano

First drive, finally!

TWOKSBURY - Upon my arrival home from summer camp, I awoke the next morning with great excitement. I looked at the calendar, and I saw that it was marked in bright red letters... DRIVER'S TEST, 9:00 AM. And so began my day.

I have been looking forward to getting my license for a long, long time. Now you probably think that this is a typical teenager thing, but let me assure you that it's not like that at all. You see, as the youngest girl in my class, I have been waiting this day for quite some time. I have been quite eager about driving. I began my driver's education course last fall, and received my permit only a few days after my birthday in January. With my permit, I could now drive with my parents. That was an experience by itself.

I won't lie to you and say that I am a gift to all drivers. The first time that I drove with my dad, I think that I could safely say that I almost gave him a heart attack! After almost hitting a snow bank, my dad decided to wait until an early Sunday morning to take me out to drive. And so every weekend, we could be seen driving around Tewksbury at the early hours. You may laugh, but those lessons with my dad taught me many things about driving. Until then, I had been so excited to drive but my dad the most important lesson - driving is a responsibility. I am responsible for myself, my car, the passengers, the pedestrians, and the laws. Learning that, I felt a little safer on the road.

My mother wouldn't set foot in a car with me until after several successful driving lessons with my dad.

Even when she did, she took me on small errands and she had her own "safety" precautions. Now if you have a parent, you know what I'm talking about. My mother would grip to the handle on the side of the door, and press her imaginary brake. Driving with her made me nervous, but I must admit that she has made me a more cautious driver.

After driving around for awhile, I began my first of six road lessons with the Crescent Auto Company. So with Debbie, my instructor, by my side, I not only learned valuable tips on driving, but a little lesson on the backroads of Tewksbury. The six lessons quickly passed, and soon the approaching test day came.

The day of the test I was filled with mixed reactions. I was nervous, excited, and still tired from my summer camp. But I went and decided that this was the day that I was going to get my license. I must admit, that I'm not the perfect driver, but when I came home, I had passed my driver's test. Actually getting my license at the RMV, well that was another story.

Because hardly any Registries are open on Saturday, I decided to wait until Monday to get my temporary license. I went to the Lawrence RMV, and took a number. I was number 679, and they were only on 640. I was surrounded by strangers and crying babies for almost two hours. Feeling claustrophobic and hungry, I was relieved when my number was finally called. After all that waiting, it took ten minutes for me to get my temporary license. When I left the RMV, I was now a licensed driver.

Finally, I have my license! So everyone, Watch out! Here I come!

Registration now open for Extended Day Care

WILMINGTON - The Extended Day Program functions under the auspices of the Wilmington School System. The program, which is developed for the elementary schools, is housed at the Wildwood Elementary School (grades one through five) and the Boutwell School (kindergarten and Boutwell grade one). It is designed to meet the needs and schedules of working parents of children in grades K-5 and runs in conjunction with the regular school calendar of 180 days. The morning schedule provides for breakfast, informal activities, and supervised leisure time from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m. five days a week. The afternoon program provides a snack and a more structured program from 3 to 6 p.m. each school day.

Staffing of the program is by qualified personnel. In addition to certified teachers, program aides and high school students are employed to assist the daily operations. The ratio of adult to child for the program is 1:10, thus assuring proper supervision.

The program comprises a range of activities, including outdoor play, arts and crafts, library time, cooking, movies, free play, computers, board games and puzzles. Children may also read a book, finish homework, or just enjoy quiet time under the supervision of our qualified staff.

Additionally, program activities will include science enrichment, theater arts and Campfire Club for boys and girls.

The non-academic component of a child's day is crucial to his/her social and emotional development. Self-confidence, self respect and self definition are encouraged. Making choices, developing responsibilities, learning to express his/her needs, and building friendships are important to a child's development.

Registration for the Extended Day Program will take place at the Wildwood Elementary School now through August 7 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. At this time, one must complete the necessary paperwork to guarantee enrollment for a child. The registration fee and the first month's tuition will also be due at this time.

Love your job and live longer

Staying motivated in the midst of madness

Don't Let It Ruin Your Day!

When you woke up this morning, the sun was shining and the temperature reached a record high for this time of year. Your day was off to a great start. You were going to be more productive than you've ever been. You felt the energy soar through your body, and you couldn't wait to share this feeling with your loved ones during the valuable quality time you spend with them after the work day is over.

Then something happened - you were rejected! Perhaps you received some negative feedback, you didn't get the job you wanted, your proposal was tossed out, or someone didn't respond to you the way you hoped they would. Now what do you do?

Does it seem like all the energy you had earlier was just drained out of you? Do you start to think that maybe your fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Jaminson was right when she told you that you would never amount to anything? Do you depress your loved ones and talk mean to the dog?

Rejection on any level is a hard thing to digest. After many years of being rejected, each new rejection still feels uncomfortable and may even leave you feeling "sick."

There's one key word that will help you to deal with the rejection in your life - FOCUS.

Placing your focus on the negative side of a situation when rejection occurs in your life is what leaves you feeling depressed, angry, drained and "sick."

When you maintain a positive focus, you'll discover ways to handle rejection in a productive manner. It sounds good - right? Sometimes just saying the words - positive focus helps you feel better. However, most of the time action is required to help us stay positive and reject rejection.

Les Brown once said that we can't control the thoughts that we have; however, we can control what we do with our thoughts. We can choose what thoughts we dwell on. It's up to you - do you choose to focus on the positive or negative?

Do you think about that one comment that was made about you all day long? Do you spend hours dwelling on what you should have done differently? A colleague of mine once stated that one negative thought can cause you to procrastinate up to six hours (at least). Who wants that!

So let's transform our negative focus into positive focus and change the way that we feel about rejection.

First let's turn our rejection into direction. (I didn't just make that up - I heard it from John Fuhrman, author of Reject Me - I Love It). Evaluate your rejection, and determine if there's any action you should take because of it. Do you agree with the information you received - the negative feedback or whatever your specific rejection may have been? Then decide if any action on your part needs to be taken. If not, don't spend one second of your time dwelling on it. Don't let it overcome you and ruin your day!! There's no room for guilt or any form of could have's or should have's. Move on!

Fill your mind with positive information. Think about your satisfied customers - give them a call to see how they are. Read any thank-you notes you've received.

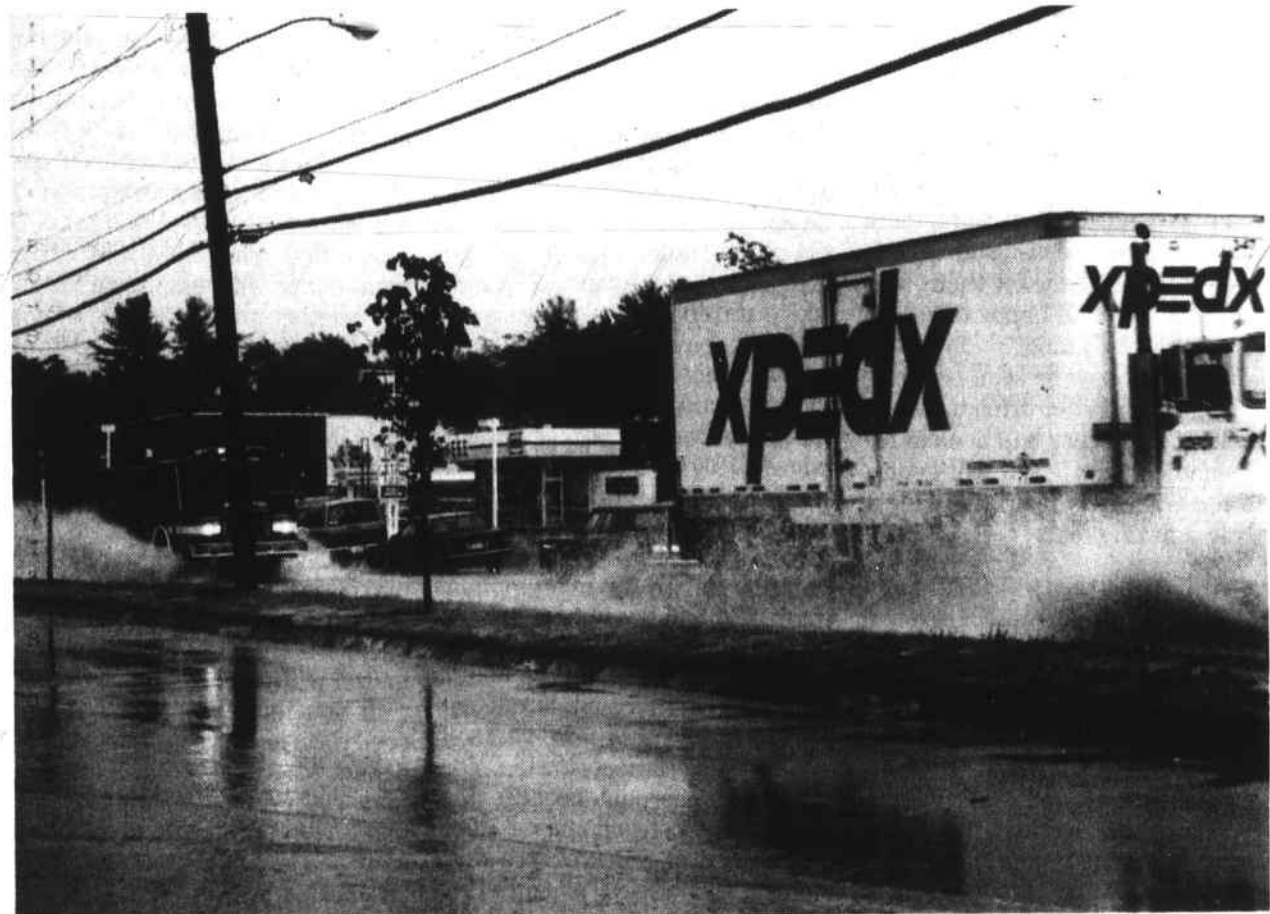

Visualize your many accomplishments. Take action! You heard the saying, "If you fall off of a horse, you should get right back on." It's true - don't end your day thinking negative. You deserve to get over it and on with it!

Speak with someone who will fuel you with positive energy, someone who feels good to be around and will help you toss the rejections and negative feelings into the garbage and move on with life!

In conclusion, I would like to tell you about a dog that I once saw. This dog had only three legs. I felt sorry for him. I thought about all the things this dog couldn't do. However, he acted as though nothing were wrong. He only focused on what wonders his life was filled with and never once laid down and gave up because of the one leg he didn't have.

Don't ever give up and let rejection ruin your day!

WILMINGTON - Thursday afternoon the Heavens opened up spilling plenty of rain and lightning on the town. Enough so that Main St flooded out neat the Plaza. Everyone found it tough going getting through that new lake. Here a truck finds nowhere to go as a Wilmington Fire Truck tries to get through even faster. The fire department was going out on alarm calls as soon as they got in and sometimes before they got back from the last.

WILMINGTON - Another week of summer means another week of playground! This past week was full of fun and exciting events.

On Monday, July 13, everyone participated in the annual favorite event of tie dying our playground tee shirts. They looked so groovy!

On Tuesday, July 14, playgrounders traveled to New Hampshire to go to Canobie Lake Amusement Park. Children played games and went on thrilling rides all day long.

Many athletes came out of the woodwork on Wednesday, July 15, as we held our annual hot shot basketball contest.

On Thursday, July 16, the leaders were afraid to set foot on the playground when they saw all types of scary creatures running around.

We celebrated Halloween in July and everyone dressed in costume and played Halloween games, including bobbing for apples, donut on a string contest, coloring contest and pin the nose on Elmo.

On Friday, July 17, it was to Chuck E. Cheese in Danvers. Each child was able to eat pizza, play games, and meet Chuck E. Himself!

communities by the percentage of their test-takers, rating either advanced or proficient.

From her results, Wilmington came in higher in the state with 82 percent of its students scoring in either of those two levels. Tewksbury advanced to 73 percent. Of other neighboring towns, North Reading ranked first in the state with an impressive 96 percent. Next were Woburn and Winchester with 89 percent of their students rated as advanced or proficient. Burlington came in with 85 percent.

The state wide percentage of students scoring as proficient or advanced readers was 68.

The results of the Iowa Reading Test show little change from last year. According to a press release from the Department of Education, the test reveals that statewide 21 percent of the students performed at the advanced level, 47 percent were proficient, 21 percent were basic and 6 percent were at pre-reading levels.

Massachusetts Education Commissioner David Driscoll noted that the statewide results from this year are nearly identical to last year's. "The results again indicate that Massachusetts students are performing better than students nationwide. However, this should not be cause for celebration; there are still over one-quarter of our third-graders who performed at the lowest levels. We need urgent attention by school leaders to strengthen the reading ability of these children," said Driscoll.

Bechard explained that their are no turnouts proposed in Wilmington. Tewksbury, however, will have one, there will be 19 in Andover and four in Methuen.

The project will cost between $3.5 and $3.6 million. Bechard said they anticipate completing the work by the end of this year.

The Massachusetts Highway Department will hold three additional hearings to discuss the project. They will meet at Tewksbury Town Hall July 29.

Wilmington Library Notes

Library mystery dinner

WILMINGTON - The library conference room was transformed into a dinner theater Tuesday, July 21, where children sitting at "lantern" tables watched the performance of Petit Fours and Poisoning: A Sophisticated Mystery Dinner.

The dinner guests at each table had the task of figuring out who murdered Cassandra, a rich, slightly batty, old lady. The guests at the four tables who guessed correctly "who done it" received prizes.

After the show, the actors served pizza, tonic and brownies to the dinner guests. The audience gave the show rave reviews with some asking when the library would have another similar performance. Kudos to the Children's Department staff for a stellar production!

Thank you to the following local businesses who contributed to the success of this program: Thank you to Papa Gino's, Rocco's Restaurant and Groceria, Pizza Mia, Michael's Place, Brothers Roast Beef & Pizza, and Uncle Mickey's Sub Shop for pizzas.

Thank you to Stelio's Restaurant for soft drinks; to D'Angelo Sandwich Shop for potato chips; to Uptown bakery & Deli for desserts.

Prizes were donated by Mancini's Restaurant, Showcase Cinemas (Woburn), and Video Paradise. Everyone in the audience received a Burger King hamburger coupon, compliments of Burger King (Burlington and Tewksbury).

Special thanks to all the volunteers who helped pick up and serve refreshments.

Senior Topics

WILMINGTON - I would like to share the following information received from Cambridge & Somerville Legal Services Senior Citizens' Law Project Legal News. Do you receive retirement or disability benefits from Social Security Administration ("SSA")? (Or Supplemental Security Income, spouse's widow's or other monetary benefits?) if so, have you ever received notices from SSA claiming that you have been paid too much money, and that SSA intends to recover the "overpayment" by deducting money from your future benefits ("Recoupment")? This article advises "you" of this right if you receive such an overpayment notice, including your right to challenge SSA's claim that you received too much money or to apply to have the overpayment waived by SSA or arrange a repayment plan that fits your budget.

Why would you receive an overpayment from SSA? Perhaps SSA simply made a mistake and paid you too much for a period of time. Maybe you failed or forgot to report changes in circumstances which affect your eligibility for benefits and the amount of those benefits. Maybe you did report changes, but SSA did not respond quickly enough. (Regardless of the cause, SSA may ask you to repay the overpayment.)

For example, if you are a Supplemental Security Income recipient and your bank balance exceeds the SSI assets limit ($2,000 for an individual; $3,000 for a couple), you are due no SSI payments until the bank balance is reduced to the permitted limit. Any SSI benefits paid during the interim are an overpayment which SSA will try to recover. On the other hand, say that you apply for widow's benefits on your husband's SSA account, but do not explain to SSA that you, yourself receive a government pension. You risk being overpaid because the government pension may reduce the amount of SSA you are due. Finally, it is always possible that there is no overpayment at all and an error has been made.

The SSA "Notice of Overpayment" informs you how much SSA claims you have been overpaid, when you were overpaid, the cause of the overpayment, repayment options and your rights of appeal. An SSA worker may call you and ask you to agree to monthly voluntary payments until the overpayment is repaid. You are under no legal obligation to agree to such a request. If you do not repay in full or agree to a repayment plan, you will receive a "Notice of Action" telling you how much the SSA intends to withhold from your monthly payments to recover the overpayment.

Read the SSA Notice of Overpayment notice very carefully. You may conclude that you were not overpaid at all. For example, if the notice shows you as having received $850 a month from January 1997 through December 1997, and you know you received $700 per month during the same period, chances are SSA has simply made a mistake. On the other hand, perhaps you realize you were overpaid, but not in the amount alleged. You should appeal an error promptly by filing a form entitled "Request for Reconsideration," which you can pick up at a district SSA office or have mailed to you by SSA, and file at the SSA office. You need only fill in your name, address, Social Security number and a brief one or two line statement about why you think you have not been overpaid or not to the extent alleged. You have 60 days in which to file the appeal; if you file within 30 days, SSA will not begin deducting monies from your payment until a decision is rendered. Even while pursuing a formal appeal process, you have a right to contact SSA in person or by telephone and try to resolve the matter with an SSA representative.

If you think you may have indeed received too much money, but cannot afford to pay it back, you may ask SSA to waive the overpayment. The appropriate form to complete and file in this case is entitled "Request for Waiver of Overpayment Recovery." This form requires you to answer a number of questions about the overpayment, whether you knew about it, whether you told SSA you were being overpaid, whether you gave away money after you were notified of the overpayment. It also asks you to present information about your income and your ordinary expenses to determine if you have money available for repayment.

In order to have an overpayment waived, you must show that the overpayment was not your fault. Did you provide SSA with all the information requested? Did you promptly report changes? Did you know you were being overpaid? Even if it was not your fault, you will still be required to repay it unless you also prove that you cannot afford to pay it back. By reporting your expenses and income, you must show that you need all or substantially all of your income to meet ordinary living expenses, or that you have relied upon the extra money in good faith (such as renting a more expensive apartment) to your detriment, making it "against equity and other conscience" to force you to repay.

You may file the waiver request at any time. If you file before SSA begins recouping the overpayment, the recoupment will not begin until a decision is rendered. If you file after recoupment begins, recoupment will stop until a decision is rendered. If you are denied, you should file a Request for Reconsideration within days to protect your benefits.

Now to get you updated with the Center. On August 3, we will start signing up for our next social event, which is an outdoor cookout at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks on Thursday, August 13. We will be having a barbecued chicken meal with live entertainment by Chet Harden. The cost is $5 (non-refundable). Last day to sign up is August 6.

Game on!

Wednesday night's over 50 softball game for the second time will be played if the afternoon's rain clears up. The game is slated to start at 7 p.m. and it is promised that it will be a good time by all.

Pony League team begins playoffs

Also on Wednesday night, the 13-year-old Pony League team will begin their playoff run. After finishing the season with an 8-5-1 record, the team will face Medford at the North Intermediate School starting at 5:45. The tourney is double elimination.

On Tuesday night, the team won in the bottom of the seventh thanks to a RBI single from John McMahan. Dave Velardo, McMahan and Craig Osgood split the pitching duties with Osgood notching his third win of the season.

Tim Rose had an excellent defensive game in all three outfield positions.

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the second time this decade, a Wilmington resident has signed a professional baseball minor league contract. Mike Alonardo, 23, signed on with the Mississippi Bluesmen, an independent team in the Texas/Louisiana League of AA ball about two weeks ago.

Thus far, the former WHS infielder then UMass-Lowell hurler, is 2-1 with one of his wins a complete-game five hit shutout. He has appeared in four games, two starts and two in relief, according to his father, Mike.

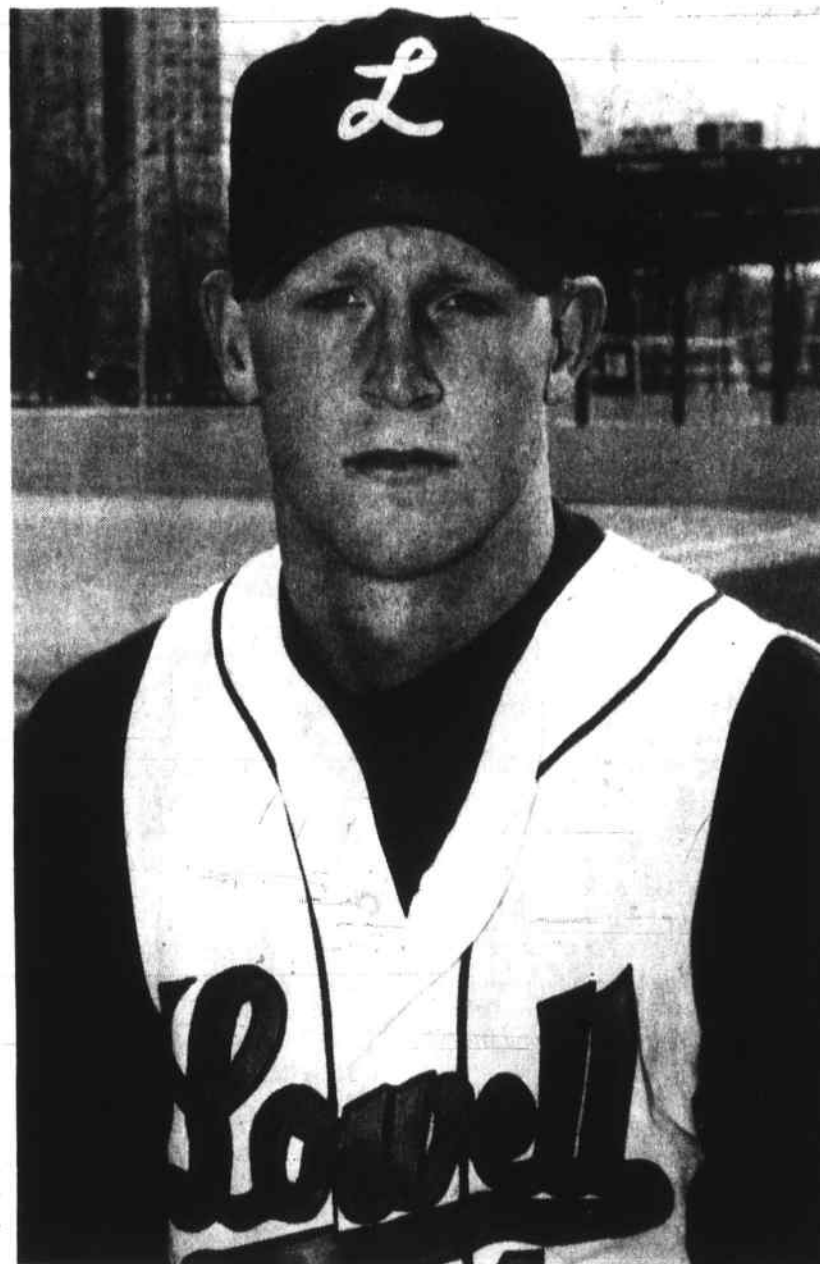

Alonardo - now joins Jason Bere who is currently with the Cincinnati Reds organization as Wilmington natives this decade to go professional - originally went to a tryout up in Vermont and was scouted by the Atlanta Braves. However, they needed a roster spot to open for Alonardo to sign with them and they didn't have one. So that same scout, recommended Alonardo to the Bluesmen. The right-handed flame-thrower signed with a signing bonus included as well as a weekly salary.

A lot of former professional ball players have or do play in this league, Darryl Strawberry for one did it before he signed on with the Yankees. In either case, it's minor league baseball.

"It's an experience for him," said his father, "but he loves it. It's rough - the team is driving 700 miles between games and it's about one hundred and one there every night, so it's not that comfortable to pitch. Many of the days are long, but it's interesting."

Alonardo played at WHS and was an infielder because they were so deep in pitching. He graduated from WHS in 1993 and went to UMass-Lowell where after two decent seasons, he really blossomed, including holding the school's strikeout record in a season with 76 which he accomplished about six weeks ago.

Wilmington native Mike Alonardo has signed a minor league contract to play Double A baseball. This is a picture from his days at UMass-Lowell which just ended about six weeks ago.

10-year-olds keep up winning ways

The Wilmington Sons of Italy sponsored 10-year-old Summer Baseball Team kept its season perfect with two wins in action that took place last week.

On Wednesday the 22nd, Wilmington crushed the Hanscom Air Force Base Team 21-6 and on Friday the 24th, they traveled to Wakefield and defeated the Wakefield Nationals 9-3. The two wins improved their record to 5-0 in the tournament.

Wednesday the 22nd, former Wilmington High School football standout, Joe Russo, brought in his troops and ran into the left arm of Sean Murphy. Murphy ran his record to 2-0 striking out six, walking two and letting up only two runs in three innings of work. Wilmington's offense was supplied by Murphy with two hits and three runs scored by Zack Mayo, two hits, three runs scored.

Dave Rizzo, Jim Good and Jeff Youngclaus also chipped in with a hit apiece and five runs scored between them. The defense was just as solid as Aldo Caira made a great catch in right field to start the game off and Josh Mayo and Scott Dunnett anchored down a strong effort in the infield for Wilmington.

On Friday the 24th, the Nationals took to the road for a game against the Wakefield National Team. After starting the game with a first inning lead of 2-0 the Wakefield team quickly came back with three of their own off a starter Zack Mayo to take a 3-2 lead after three.

In the top of the fourth with one out, Sean Murphy started the ball rolling with a walk and stolen base.

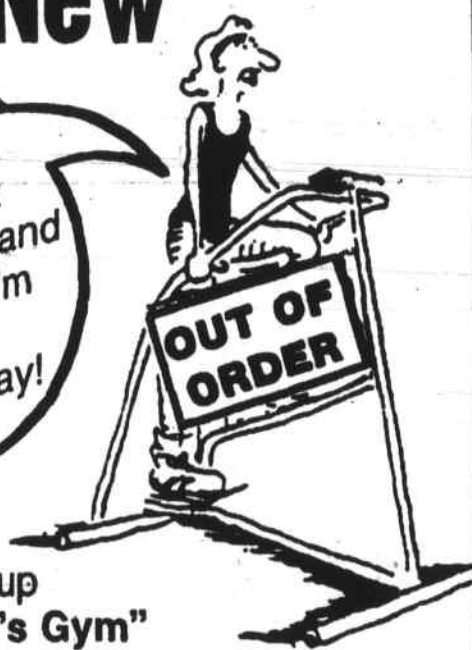

Dave Rizzo walked behind Murphy to put runners on first and second. A couple of wild pitches later both would score to give Wilmington a 4-3 lead and they would never look back.

In the top of the fifth, aided by five straight walks to Dave Doucette, Jim Good, Shane Foley, Tom Miele and Jeff Youngclaus and a clutch single by Zack Mayo, Wilmington scored five more runs to seal the victory. Dave Griffin picked up his first win of the year in relief of Zack Mayo and Sean Murphy recorded his second save of the year, finishing the game with two innings of no-hit/shutout pitching and striking out three Wakefield Nationals. defensively Tom Miele was a standout at second base while Mike Frisore patrolled first base with ease and Jeremy Schuh great catch in left sealed another win for Wilmington.

Dan McGinness Cycling for a cure for cancer

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It can be easy sometimes to take life and your health for granted. Some of us get up everyday and complain about things that really shouldn't matter.

Thirty-three year-old Wilmington native Dan McGinness can't take his life or anyone else's who he cares about for granted, nor their health either. Because if he does, he will get himself into some rude awakenings time after time again.

Thus far, Dan has lost two family members to cancer, while one currently has brain tumors and another has been completely cured of the disease. He knows that those who have been stricken with this illness, either related or not, certainly don't have things so easy as to those who don't have the disease.

In order to help those people out, for the third straight year, Dan and nine other friends of his will ride at the "Road Warriors" for the Pan-Mass Challenge, a 192-mile bike ride beginning on Saturday, August 1. All to help raise money for cancer research.

"It's so satisfying to cross that finish line, it's really hard to describe what your feeling," McGinness said. "But to know that your helping a cause and people is certainly worth the bike ride. To see what people go through is nothing compared to this bike ride, I want to help as much as I can so people don't have to go through what they do."

In 1992, Dan's brother-in-law Matt White of Shirley, Ma., was diagnosed with cancer. Two years

Sports Column Ever hear of "Negotiating"?

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It's been a while since I have written a column, so I figured why not one this week? I usually don't write columns on professional players, but I feel as if I have to.

Will someone please tell me why everyone in their brother is talking about a guy's contract that is not up 'til November, every single day and every minute? I'm so SICK of Mo Vaughn this and Mo Vaughn that. His contract is not over until the end of this year and that's when you talk a new contract. Both sides have a month or so to do it, if it's not done, move on, if it does get done, fine. I want to talk about baseball and how much fun it is to watch the Sox this season. I don't want to be listening to Steve from Natick on WEEI saying the Red Sox should keep Mo because of what he does so much for the community. A lot of other players do just as much as Mo off the field and you never hear them or anyone else talk about it.

Hey, if Mo Vaughn wants to stay here and likes it here he would do something called, "Negotiate." I want Mo to stay, if he leaves I'll live with it. We all thought we couldn't when Roger left and look who Dan Duquette brought in to replace him - some guy named Pedro Martinez.

Okay, the first offer of two years for twenty million was a slap in the face to Mo, I'll admit that. Then Mo should have said no thanks Dan, but how about 5 years for 60. Dan then would say no thanks Mo, how about 3 for 32. Mo would then say how about 4 years for 47 and Dan would say I'll do 4 for 44, viola, a deal is struck. Since the Red Sox had already offered him ten million a year for two years, then 9.25 for four years, don't you think they would give him ten for four? That's negotiating, start low, ask high and meet in the middle.

I know it's not that easy, but all Mo and his agents did was go to the press and whine while the team is in the middle of a pennant race. Need we forget it was a while back when Mo cried that the team wasn't committed to winning. They commit, he whines, they don't commit, he whines. He says it's not about the money, they offer him a fair but slightly below deal and he whines. Then offer him two years he whines, four years, he whines. Blah, blah, blah once again. Enough already?

If Mo doesn't sign there will be a huge vacancy to fill, no doubt about that. He does produce and he does produce a lot. But let's see what happens. If Mo walks, (Toronto, who of his friends will be there next year?...Yankees, um Tino...Mets maybe but not if they sign Piazza...Orioles, perhaps but not for more money he was offered by the Sox...surprise team like Anaheim, Texas, Dodgers, more likely) don't you think there is a back up plan? Sure I don't want Mo to go, but I would feel very comfortable that if he does leave that Dan Duquette would fill the need(s) with better player(s). Mo is suppose to be a team leader, what kind of an example is he leading?

If Vaughn was smart, he would say no comment on every contract question, prove just how valuable he is to the team, not just with his bat but his presence. Right now he is only hurting himself.

Enough is enough. Deal with it after the season. This summer the Sox are playing well and winning, let's concentrate on that and the chances of going to the playoffs behind the arm of Pedro. It's bad enough listening to Mo everyday, but the newspapers, radio and now television is obsessed with this non-issue. ENOUGH ALREADY.

Bay State Games conclude with many locals

The 17th annual Bay State Summer Games concluded recently with the soccer, field hockey, ice hockey and archery competitions. Fifty-two Tewksbury and Wilmington residents competed and did extremely well.

The ice hockey tournament played at the New England Sports Center in Marlboro was arguably the most exciting competition in both the girls and boys divisions. The West boys took the gold medal in an upset over the Central team. The West was able to avenge an earlier loss to Central who had been undefeated throughout round robin play. Trailing 2-0 going into the second period the West rallied for three goals to take the lead into the third.

In the girls final the Northeast team edged the Southeast 4-3. The Northeast team took a 4-2 lead going into the third period and held on for the gold medal. The Northeast earns the honor of being the first team to win a gold medal in the first girls scholastic ice hockey tournament.

The 7 vs 7 field hockey and soccer tournaments played at Devens field complex ran Friday through Sunday. The three day competition allowed all teams to play multiple games. The tournament featured divisions collegiate field hockey, men's and women's open soccer and field hockey, and a junior soccer group.

The archery competition also at Devens was held Sunday. Close to 100 archers competed in divisions of Olympic Bow, Fita Compound Bow, Compound Release, Compound fingers, and Barebow.

The 1998 Bay State Summer Games is also sponsored in part by Massachusetts Office of Travel & Tourism, Bell Atlantic, UMass Memorial Health Care, Reebok, Cummings Properties, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, the Yawkey Foundation, Jam'n94.5, and Dunkin Donuts.

The Bay State Summer Games is a project of the Massachusetts Amateur Sports Foundation. MASF also organizes the Bay State Winter Games, special educational programs and other competitions throughout the year.

13-year-old all-stars crowned champs before booted

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After coming out of the loser's bracket with back-to-back wins over North Reading to be crowned District Champions, the Wilmington 13-year-old baseball all-star team was eliminated on Sunday despite a late rally.

Down 8-1 to a very tough Chelmsford Lupien team in the fifth inning, the Cats scored five runs in the last three innings to make it 8-6. However, that was all Wilmington could manage as they left holding their heads high in the Bi-District game held at Veterans Field in Methuen.

"The kids played very well, I couldn't be any prouder than I am now," said head coach Marty Tildsley.

Behind a few errors, bad breaks and bounces, the Cats trailed 8-1. But in the bottom of the fifth they scored three runs taking advantage of just that - a few breaks. Dave Rappoli and Dave Velardo had the big hits in that inning.

The following inning Wilmington added two more when Ryan Tildsley and Rappoli both singled and scored on a suicide bunt from Greg Buck and an error. Wilmington had the tying run at the plate, but couldn't muster anything.

Rappoli and Buck shared the pitching duties and both of them pitched well enough to win. Buck pitched the last three, giving up just one run.

Wilmington had just six hits in the game, as Tildsley and Rappoli each reached base all four at-bats, while Rappoli was the lone batter with two hits.

Prior to the loss, Wilmington defeated North Reading on Wednesday and then on Friday. Billy Sinopoli was the winning pitcher on Friday when they won 13-7. Rappoli notched the win on Wednesday.

Bill Conlon's Outdoor column

Good night, little buddy

After all these years, I finally got to meet an old friend of mine, up close.

A few nights ago, I was dropping of the boss's truck at 0h-dark-thirty in the morning. (I rarely get to bed much before midnight, unless there's a big fishing trip the next day.)

Pulling out of the driveway, I happened to spot the boss's wife, dressed in her housecoat and gestulating wildly at me from her glassed-in porch.

Naturally, my left eyebrow arched. What the heck is she up to, at this hour?

"Thank God you're here," said she as I strolled up. "There's a BAT in the house! Can you get it out for me?"

A bat? Oh, cool! I love bats!

Sure enough, there was a Little Brown Bat circling through the living room, dining room, up the stairs to her office and back down again. Utterly silent, and with a wingspan about the size of a robin's. How he got into the house is a mystery, which we hope doesn't repeat itself. Bats often crawl into cracks along the roof line, looking for a new home.

Contrary to myth, bats are harmless. In fact, they're very beneficial to have around! They don't drink blood (well, one species does, but they're not found around here), they don't fly into women's hair and they don't carry rabies, any more than other wild animals. This little guy was acting just like a normal bat in an abnormal place, so I had no fear of rabies.

On countless after-dark fishing excursions, I've looked up and seen bats circling within inches of my head. Great! They've never once touched me, and they're actually providing a service! After sunset, the mosquitoes are all over me like a cheap suit. But then the bats appear, chowing down on the evil nippers at a rate of 400 to 500 insects per night, per bat! Sounds like a good partnership to me!

Anyway, back to the intruder, the bringer of late-night terror. (Milady was petrified, hiding in the bathroom and peeking out from behind the door. Sheesh!)

First order of business was locating the little beastie. The bat was clearly visible while on the wing, but then he'd land on a curtain to rest, and disappear. At one point I went all through the house, slapping every curtain and brushing every shelf, trying to roust the little rascal. No go.

Finally he reappeared, fluttering silently through the hallway. Ah! I flipped the towel into his path and knocked him down. Surprisingly (and this is something I didn't know) he jumped up off the floor and took wing again. I thought bats had to get a falling start before they could take wing, but that is obviously untrue.

After a few more laps around the house I was once again in the path of the oncoming bat. Again a sweep of the towel brought the aviator down, but this time I wrapped him up securely. Game over. Outside, on the front steps, I got to inspect my catch before releasing him.

The little feller was tiny, small enough (with his wings folded) to hide in the palm of my hand. The forward joint of each wing had fingers on them, and he was covered in soft brown fur. Kind of cute, actually. He also had some very pointy little teeth, but I wasn't about to find out.

Pulling back the towel, the bat looked around and decided there were better places to be. Two quick laps around my head as a "thank you" and he was off into the dark.

Good luck, little guy.

Eight former TMHS football players help MVC win again

BY JIM SOUTHMAYD
Daily Times Chronicle

There can be no longer any doubt that the Merrimack Valley Conference was superior to the Middlesex League in football this past year.

The MVC All-Stars rolled to a decisive 33-0 victory over the ML All-Stars in the fifth annual Carole Classic played before an estimated crowd of 3,000 spectators on hand for Thursday night at Connolly Stadium in Woburn.

The MVC has now won the past three Carole Classic contests to take a 3-2 lead in the summer series. The MVC also has bragging rights for the year because of its domination of the ML in non-league contests and in the Div. 2 Super Bowl last fall.

Like the Div. 2 Super Bowl between Central Catholic and Wakefield (a 34-16 blow out), it was a close game until the second half. That's when the power running game of the MVC took its toll on the ML as a 7-0 game turned into a rout late in the third quarter.

It was also the first of the Carole Classic games to be a one-sided affair.

The Carole Classic is co-sponsored by The Daily Times Chronicle and the Lowell Sun. All the proceeds raised benefit patients recovering from cancer. The Carole Classic All-Star football game has raised over 75,000 over the past five years.

The Carole Fund was founded by Bill and Pat Egan in memory of their daughter, Carole, who was stricken with the fatal disease. The Carole Fund raises money to send kids to camp while recovering from their illness.

Kara Irving, a senior to-be at Wilmington High, has overcome the disease and she was this year's Carole Classic Game Queen (see related story inside).

As for the other locals in the game, Tewksbury was represented with eight recent TMHS graduates from last year's successful team. And they were: Ron Heald as a wide receiver; Justin Hamilton and Paul Davoren as defensive backs; Dave Shunamon as a running back; Ryan Gath as a linebacker; Jim Higgins as a defensive tackle and Ralph Perrotti and Mike Honan as an offensive linemen.

The contest was an entertaining one in the first half as the two defenses played extremely well with the MVC holding a 7-0 edge at the break. In the third quarter, the MVC went to the big play—a 64-yard touchdown pass from Derek Vater to Joe Uliano for one score—and then it capitalized with great field position on a bad snap on a Middlesex punt. The MVC had first and goal at the two and easily punched the ball in for a commanding 19-0 lead after three.

The Merrimack Valley added two more late scores as the rout was on.

"We were a little confused on offense in the first half with some of our personnel so we made some adjustments in the second half," said Chelmsford High coach Bruce Rich. "We have some great running backs and we wanted to get back to basics by running the football. Also our defense was definitely flying to the ball."

The MVC was led by the backfield running of Bob Drouin (Dracut), Ned Heslin (Chelmsford), Shunamon, Mike Kowalski (Lowell), Mike Terenzi (Haverhill), Uliano (Central Catholic), Ken Howshan (Methuen), and Vater (Haverhill) as they combined for 246 yards on 47 carries.

Drouin had 58 yards rushing, Heslin ran for 54 yards, Shunamon checked in with 38, Kowalski had 33, Uliano grinded out 19 yards, Howshan chipped in with 11 yards, and Vater gained five yards making for a well-balanced attack.

Vater also displayed the throwing skills as he completed five out of nine passes for 100 yards with one TD.

Uliano also had 64 yards on one catch out of the backfield as he turned a little dump pass in the flat into a big gainer with the yards he gained after the catch.

"I think we got away from our running game a little bit in the first half. We were suppose to be the running team and they (the Middlesex) was the passing team," said Rich. "But, we were throwing the ball while they kept it on the ground. It was vice versa in the second half. We wanted to get back to the basics with our talented running backs. I don't know if you can find another corps like that anywhere in the state. To have all those good backs is a coach's dream."

"I thought we did a nice job of spreading the ball around to the different backs and we got a good push off the line. The line ending up dominating," added Rich. "This is our third straight for the Merrimack Valley and we've done it against a tough Middlesex League program."

Middlesex League All-Stars coach Rocky Nelson of Woburn, felt that the MVC was loaded in the backfield and those talented athletes were certainly the difference in the contest.

"They're backs are great and they were the difference in the game. It was a close game until the second half when they wore us down," said Nelson. "It was still an game even when it was 13-0, but when we had the bad snap on the punt and they went in (the end zone) again that was the ballgame. Still, I think our kids played hard and they did their best."

The ML didn't do much of anything in the first half as it rushed for only 34 yards on 11 carries. Quarterback John Roberto, meanwhile, completed one of three passes for three with one interception in the first half.

Roberto did perform better in the second half as he completed nine out of 17 passes for 50 yards. Most of those throws were to former teammate Rick Barbaro (six catches, 36 yards).

The first score came with 4:40 remaining in the first half of play as the MVC mounted a 16-play drive that ate up almost 10 minutes of the game clock.

Uliano had a key third gain of four yards to pick up a first down, while Heslin had gains of 11 yards and seven yards to pick up first downs. Shunamon had an eight-yard run to move the chains and Vater completed passes of eight yards and 13 yards to Bill Silvio.

The long sustained drive culminated with Kowalski barreling in from two yards out to give the MVC a 6-0 lead. Matt Didio added the extra point with 4:40 before half-time to put the MVC in front by a 7-0 score.

In the second half, the Middlesex moved the ball from its own 31-yard line as Roberto hooked up with Barbaro on passes on five and seven yards as the ML started to move the chains. Dave McMillan (Belmont) also caught a pass and Driscoll had a gain of four yards. But, the drive stalled on a rush for no gain by Driscoll and Roberto misfired twice as the ML punted the ball away.

The MVC used the big pass play for its second score. Kowalski had a key rush on a third down and three situation as he appeared to be stopped for a loss, but somehow forged ahead for five yards and a first down. On a third-and-six play from its own 36-yard line, Vater found Uliano with a pass that went for 64 yards and a TD as Uliano eluded two tacklers on his way down the right sideline.

The PAT attempt was blocked, but the MVC held a 13-0 lead with 4:40 left in the third quarter.

The MVC put the game away several minutes later as a bad snap on a Middlesex League punt gave the MVC great field position at the ML two-yard line.

Shunamon added a 10-yard touchdown with 1:14 left in the game. He also made four unassisted tackles, while, Davoren and Higgins each had one.

12 and under continue to slug it out

The Wilmington 12 and under softball team started the week in a promising manner by defeating Burlington 20-19. The three hour marathon was not decided until Kristen Burns struck out the last batter with the tying run on third.

Kristen also led the offensive attack for the Cats with three hits as well as some elusive base running. Lauren Rappoli chipped in with two hits as well as her usual stellar play behind the plate.

Lani Cabral-Pini continues to befuddle the opposition with her speedy base running and Corrie Iosue's consistent hitting has been a vital asset to the batting order.

The Wildcats lost the next game 15-11 to Lexington. The game marked the pitching debut of Lauren Rappoli who pitched the final two innings and struck out three displaying amazing accuracy as well as impressive velocity.

Katie Riley had a key two out single driving in two runs in the first inning, but the Cats could not hold off late inning rallies by the Lexington team.

later, White himself rode in the Pan-Mass Challenge and a year after that he completely was clean of the disease. That's when Dan got involved. In-between, Dan lost an aunt, while his father-in-law has had throat cancer and his cousin has had brain tumors because of the spreading of the disease and he has also had a few other family members who have met the challenge of fighting it themselves.

Now in its 19th year of existence, the Pan-Mass Challenge hopes to grow on its 2,000 riders and 5.7 million dollars it raised last year to help the Jimmy Fund and the Dana Farber Institute. It will get going on August 1, and finish up the following day. It starts in Sturbridge, Ma., at 6 am and the first day stops 112 miles at Mass. Maritime Academy. The following day, the next 80 miles will take him to Provincetown where the ride ends.

"The mental preparation for the hills from Sturbridge is the hardest part. If you can get by the first forty miles of hills you are fine. The second day you are a little tender at first, but believe me, it's all worth it," McGinness said.

A Burlington resident for most of his life, Dan moved to Wilmington four years ago. A Manager of an Electric Firm in Wilmington, his family has also gotten involved with his wife, Patrice, and stepchildren, Stephanie and Stephen Johnson, volunteering their time as well.

"They will get up at 1 am on Sunday morning and go down and help cook breakfast and prepare all of the food for all of the riders who will be coming in around 4 am.

They make everything," he said.

Over the first two years, McGinness has raised at least the minimum of eleven hundred dollars. Last year he pushed the "Heavy Hitter" club at $2,500 and this time around he hopes for even forward to it," he said.

If you would like to send a tax-deductible donation to the PMC-Jimmy Fund on McGinness' behalf, you may send a check in whole dollar amounts payable to "PMC-Jimmy Fund" and mail it to: Dan McGinness, 121 Woburn Street, Wilmington, MA., 01887.

THE SELLER MAY PAY

You have finally saved enough for a down payment on your first home, with a little left over to buy the furniture you will need. Then you hear about additional closing costs you weren't anticipating which seems like a real set back.

One way to cover such a shortage is to make the sellers an offer that calls for them to credit you for some of the closing costs. As a rule, the sellers may pay a maximum of 3 percent of the sales price if the buyer is putting five percent down. If the buyer is making a down payment of 10 percent or more, the seller can contribute up to 6 percent of the sales price to cover the buyer's closing costs. Some items must be paid by the buyers, such as pre-paid taxes and the first month's mortgage payment. Sellers may also contribute to paying the appraisal, points, title insurance, settlement attorney fees, state or local transfer taxes and similar items. Keep in mind that if the credit is included in the price of the house, the appraiser will have to justify the amount based on sales prices of similar homes in the neighborhood.

12-year-old Baystate baseball team off to impressive start

Wilmington Summer Baseball's entry into the BayState Baseball Tournament of Champions' 12-year-old division started play last week and are off to an impressive 3-1 start.

Sponsored by Omni-Lite of Burlington, the A-Team swept a home and home series with East Cambridge and split a weekend series at a neutral site over this past weekend with Lexington.

Play began for the A-Team on Tuesday, July 21, as Wilmington played host to East Cambridge at the North Intermediate field. After two innings of scoreless baseball, East Cambridge would strike first scoring four runs on two hits and three Wilmington miscues in the top of the third. Wilmington answered with three runs of their own when John Cuoco drew a one out walk and Sean Godding launched a rocket to center field for his first home run of the year, cutting the lead to 2-4.

Consecutive singles by Kenny Luongo and Mike Kelley and a walk to Derek Montalto loaded the bases for Joe Cairra, who drew the third walk of the inning driving in the third run for Wilmington and making the score 4-3. East Cambridge would add to their lead in the top of the fourth with a two out triple making the score 5-3.

The score would stay that way until the bottom of the sixth, when Wilmington staged a dramatic comeback to take the win. Peter Olivieri led off with a double to center. Following an out Sean Godding and Matt David drew walks to load the bases. Dave Demango then smashed a one hopper back to the mound which the pitcher knocked down and threw to the plate to get Olivieri.

Now with two outs and the bases still loaded, Kelley drew a four pitch walk and Jon Stark was hit by a pitch to knock in the tying run. After a pitching change by East Cambridge, Andy "Moose" Berian came to the plate and launched a rocket of his own to the center field fence to knock in Demango with the winning run.

Demango also benefited from the late inning comeback, notching his first win of the year in relief of Matt David. Mike Kelley started the game for Wilmington, pitching two innings of two hit baseball, striking out five East Cambridge hitters. Defensively for Wilmington Billy Nee made a superb play at shortstop killing an East Cambridge rally in the fourth and Jon Stark's two catches in center field held them scoreless in the fifth.

Game two against East Cambridge took place on Thursday, the 23rd at Donnelly Field in Cambridge. After an hour's delay because of wet field conditions, and thanks to the efforts of Wilmington Coaches Bob Stark, Mike Pizzotti and Mike Cairra (who doubled as groundskeepers), the A-Team would start this one off with a bang. Not wasting any more time Peter Olivieri led off the game with a first pitch home run to center field. A walk to Jon Stark and Dave Demango delivered the first of his two home runs, a two run blast to right field, as Wilmington was off to a 3-0 start.

With Jon Stark on the mound for Wilmington, it seemed that was all they would need, as Stark pitched three innings of no hit/shutout baseball. Stark would strikeout seven and walk four on his way to his first victory of the year.

Wilmington did add another run in the third for a 4-0 and opened the game up in the fourth with five more. Derek Montalto, Billy Nee and Andy Berian each singled with Nee and Berian knocking in runs. John Cuoco then took a walk to put runs at first and second to set the table for Demango who smashed his second home run of the game to right field.

Wilmington finished out the scoring with a run in the fifth and two in the sixth for the 12-4 victory. Ken Luongo added one of those runs with a solo homer in the sixth to cap a four home run effort by the A-Team.

The defensive highlight of the game came in the fourth inning after giving up a grand slam to East Cambridge. East Cambridge's third hitter put a bid in for a solo shot of his own but a perfect relay from Jon Stark in center to Mike Kelley at short to Derek Montalto at the plate cut down the runner and any hopes of an East Cambridge comeback.

Win number three and game number three came on Saturday the 25th at Danehey Field in Cambridge against Lexington.

With Mike Kelley on the mound for Wilmington the game would remain scoreless through the first four innings. Kelly would strike out six Lexington batters, walk one and let up only two hits in three innings for work. Matt David came on in relief and struck out two more hitters in the fourth before the Lexington bats came alive in the fifth.

A walk and three hits later Lexington jumped out to a 3-0 lead in a game that was so close that it seemed that was all Lexington would need.

Wilmington would show their muscles and stage their second come-from-behind victory in three games. Jon Stark led off with a walk and was safe, at second on a close play as Matt David reached on a fielders' choice. One out later Mike Kelley walked to load the bases, bringing David Demango to the plate. Demango delivered the next pitch into center field for a two run single with Kelley taking third on the throw and Demango second.

Peter Olivieri then hit a long sacrifice fly to center field to score Kelley with the tying run and Demango moved to third. Next up came the hero of the game, Andy Berian who delivered another clutch hit up the middle to score Demango with the eventual winning run.

Lexington did put a scare into Wilmington's plans for a win in the top of the sixth, as with one out they put runners at first and second. The next hitter for Lexington pounded a sharp ground ball to Kenny Luongo at first. Luongo then made a heads up play to cut the runner down at second to Mike Kelley covering.

With runner from second not hesitating around third, Kelley whirled home and fired a strike to Peter Olivieri who tagged out the runner for the final out of the game. Derek Montalto and Joe Cairra added hits to round out the offense for Wilmington. Matt David picked up the win, for his first of the year.

Game number four for the Omni-Lite sponsored A-Team came on Sunday the 26th with a rematch against Lexington. This game turned out to be the opposite of the game played the day before as Lexington slugged Wilmington 14-9. Lexington opened the game by scoring 10 runs in the first three innings before the Wilmington bats woke up.

In the top of the fourth, John Cuoco led off with a walk, Dave Demango singled and Billy Nee reached on a fielders' choice to load the bases as Cuoco was safe at third. Mike Kelley drew a walk for the first Wilmington run. Kenny Luongo reached on a fielders choice for the second. A walk to Andy Berian loaded them up again and Matt David came through with a base clearing triple to right field to cut the lead to 10-5.

Wilmington pitchers were unable to keep the Lexington bats silent however as they answered with four more in the bottom of the inning to seal Wilmington's fate. Wilmington did try to stage a third come-from-behind victory as they added three more in the fifth thanks to a triple by Kenny Luongo, another run producing hit by David and a two run single by Peter Olivieri.

The A-Team would score again in the sixth with Mike Kelley scoring on yet another run producing hit by Matt David for the final score of 14-9. The defensive play of the game for Wilmington came in the first as Mike O'Connor's snare of a line drive kept Lexington to scoring only three.

The A-Team gets back into action on Tuesday, July 28 at home against Westford and again on Thursday, July 30 at Westford. The 12-year-old entry in to the BayState Baseball Tournament of Champions needs only one more win to clinch a spot in next weekend's Trophy Round at Winchester.

Major all-stars eliminated

The Wilmington Major Softball All-Star softball Team defeated Wakefield National 18-17, in the semifinal game for the District championship played at Rotary Park.

Maria Sorrentino pitched in her first All-Star Tournament game and helped set the tone for Wilmington in the top of the first by facing the minimum three batters. Wilmington then took advantage of Wakefield's wildness, scoring four runs in the bottom of the first on four walks and two hits.

The big blow came from Corey Iosue with a two-run single. Wakefield came right back in the top half of the second inning scoring six runs with aggressive base running. Wilmington responded with four runs of their own on five hits in the bottom of the second. The big hit of the inning was by Katie Riley, a clutch single driving in Kristin Burns.

Sorrentino settled down, giving up only single runs in the third and fourth, striking out three. Wilmington scored four and two runs in the next two innings.

Going into the fifth, Sorrentino got tired and her lack of pitching experience, combined with the 95 degree temperature allowed Wakefield to score seven runs to take the lead 15-14.

Ashley Steenbrugen came in in relief to get the final out of the inning. Wilmington came back to take the lead as Katie Riley got her fourth hit of the game; a double, to score Ashley Steenbrugen with the tying run. Riley went on to score the go ahead run.

The top of the sixth saw Wakefield once again go ahead, scoring two runs on three hard line drives. Going into the bottom half of the sixth and down by one run, Wilmington's Lauren Rappoli and Kristin Burns walked and advanced on a passed ball. On a pickoff attempt at third, Rappoli scored the tying run and Burns advanced to third. After on out, Heather Rogers' sacrifice fly ball to right drove in the winning run.

Wilmington advanced to the district finals in Wakefield.

Wakefield National 5

Wilmington 4

In the District 13 final game, Wakefield National defeated Wilmington in an exciting softball game at Wakefield's Fernald Field. In a true championship game highlighted by many solid defensive plays, Wilmington came within one out of being the Division 13 District Champion.

In the top of the first Wilmington took a one run lead on walks to Shannon Fahey and Gina Ranno and an rbi single by Kristin Burns. Wakefield's pitcher, Amy Van Holten settled down to strike out the next two batters. Wilmington's Heather Rogers pitched out of a bases loaded jam, the first of three such situations, by inducing a grounder to third baseman Lauren Rappoli for a force at plate and snaring a line drive off the bat of Christina Sancineto.

After holding Wilmington scoreless in the second, Wakefield tied the score on a walk and a bloop single in the back of third. Wilmington responded with three runs in the top of the third on singles by Shannon Fahey, Kristin Burns and Heather Rogers. Wakefield loaded the bases with two outs in their half of the third, but Rogers held on to strike out the next batter.

Wilmington was unable to take advantage of a lead off single by Katie Riley, saw Wakefield's bats come alive in the fourth. After a walk to the number nine hitter, Wakefield's fine catcher Brooke Naylor lined a triple down the left field line. The next batter singled scoring Naylor, but was put out on a heads up play by right fielder Corey Iosue, who caught the runner in a perfectly executed rundown. The next three Wakefield batters each singled, loading the bases with one out. With Wilmington's infield drawn in, Shannon Fahey fielded a hard grounder and came up firing home to Maria Sorrentino for the force. The next batter lined out to third baseman Lauren Rappoli.

After a scoreless fifth, Wilmington came into the sixth holding onto a 4-3 lead. Wakefield held Wilmington scoreless again in the sixth and the game would rest on Wilmington's defense. Wilmington retired Wakefield's first batter on a grounder to second and the next on a liner to left.

With two outs, Wakefield mounted the winning attack on a single to center, a walk and one of those "dying quail" top spin hits between second and the pitcher just out of the reach of the second baseman to load the bases. As the strike zone became smaller, the experienced Wakefield batters waited out the tiring Wildcats for two walks forcing in the tying and winning runs.

Although the Wilmington players came up short on their end of the score, they should be proud of their effort and manner in which they performed.

Wilmington Little League would like to give a special thanks to Joe, Lynn and Katie Martel for their work, understanding and support throughout the All-Star Tournament.

Wilmington's Bob Gilardi congratulates Jay Kenney after his second place finish at the Londonderry Raceway.

Racing column

Kenney leads with points on track

Wilmington's own Jay Kenney savors top spot midway through the 1998 racing season at both Londonderry Raceway and New Hampshire International Speedway.

Jay leads in points at both tracks in the World Karting Association Junior Sportsman II Division.

He gets to test his driving skills in both high speed high banked oval and the physically demanding twists and turns of road course racing.

This is Jay's second year of racing most awesome and fastest karts anywhere took to the track at speed in excess of 120 mph. Quite scary to watch, but exciting too!

This past Sunday, Londonderry Raceway was host to the Coca Cola and first year at N.H.I.S., a first class race track. All the kids enjoy using the same track and garages that their favorite Nascar Drivers use.

Last month N.H.I.S. was host to the World Karting Association Grand National event. Some of the 100 featuring the 5/8 super modifieds. It was quite a show with only one serious crash that took out three cars; no injuries, thankfully.

Jay Kenney is getting his car ready for next Sunday's triple points race at Londonderry. August 16 he returns to N.H.I.S. to defend first place there.

If there's a business in Wilmington that would like to see their company name on the side of Jay's car and trailer, call Bob Gilardi at 988-0734. Jay would really appreciate the help and you'll get good name exposure. A win-win all around.

Glen Road playground is busy with kids

WILMINGTON Last week's Playgroupers of the Week at the Glen Road Playground were Jimmy Good and Megan Godding. They shared their positive comments and cooperative attitude with everyone they came in contact with!

Sharing the spotlight with Jimmy and Megan were Volunteers of the Week, Mike Halas and Bethany Mutchler. Mike and Bethany consistently came to playground and helped with daily activities.

Last week's activities at the Glen Road Playground were full of excitement.

Monday's arts and crafts activity was southwestern Indian sand painting. On Tuesday, a bus load of playgrounders headed to Canobie Lake Park for a day of fun and amusements. Wednesday was the playground's annual hot shot basketball contest in which the children competed for cool prizes.

On Thursday, the children switched from summer to fall for Halloween Day. Spice Girls, genies, scarecrows, and other interesting "people" roamed around the playground and participated in various contests and games. They enjoyed doughnut eating contests, bubble gum blowing contests and pin the nose on Garfield.

Winners of the costume contest were Ronald Beck (Zorro), Corey Phillips (Alien) and Katie Martell (gorilla).

Friday's field trip to Chuck E. Cheese was a real treat on a hot day!

This week's Volunteers of the Week were Derrick Clark and Ryan Murphy, who frequently show up early and stay late to help leaders with setup and cleanup activities. Their assistance is greatly appreciated.

Playgroupers of the week were Ron Beck and Erin Muise. Their good manners and willingness to play fair make them well liked by all.

The week's activities began with a flashback in time to the 60s, with tie-dye t-shirt day. The rainbow of colors could be seen for miles around. On Tuesday playgrounders took a trip to Candlewood Lanes for an exciting day of bowling. While there, the children were treated to delicious pizza from Andrea's Pizza of North Reading.

Wednesday was Playground Olympics and the Glen Road group traveled to the Woburn Street Playground for a wild day of under-over water balloon relays, three legged races, dizzy bat, wheel barrel races, tug-o-war, hula hoop relays and old clothes relays.

Despite the heat, Playgroupers had a lot of fun and laughs. Thursday was another day of fun in the sun as the children enjoyed a trip to Silver Lake Beach. Some played volleyball, others played pickle while still others swam or danced through the sprinklers with the leaders.

Friday ended the week with a day of Bingo. At least a dozen children took home bingo prizes.

"Holy Spirit you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Pouring heat and humidity from the hot, hazy July weather can tend to make a person think of something cool and past hockey heroes come to mind.

Topping the list were three Wakefield people who reached the heights of playing on a United States Olympic Hockey Team. They are the late Red Czarnta from the late 1940's, Laurence J. Palmer who played for the 1960 team that was the first American team to beat the Russians, and Wakefield's Mark Kumpel.

Palmer, now 60, has remained active in the game over the years although not in the United States. According to his in-laws,

Robert and Carole Sheldon, Palmer has been a resident of Fribourg, Switzerland, where he Olympic Reunion to S-4

ANTHONY MANCONI

Folks, I thank God for the many, cousins, relatives and friends who allow me to mention them in my jokes, puns and quips, especially my Aunt Nora.

Why is it that my nephew Dennis Tully can pitch a no-hit Little League baseball game in the morning and, can't hit my front porch with the evening paper?

Sign on the Marine Corps training grounds in Quantico Virginia, "If you can't LEAD and won't follow get the heck OUT of the way!"

Blackie Vega is so slow, it takes him an hour and a half to watch 60 Minutes.

I loved Andy Griffin's show and an expression he used, "Ah Appreciate it." That saying and "Thank You" it seems to me are becoming rare commodities. A case in point, my friend Johnny Ave got up and gave his seat to a lady holding on to the overhead strap on the blue line. She sat down and fainted. When she came to she said, "Thank You Sir" and, Johnny Ave fainted.

I asked George Gould, "what kind of a name is 'Gould?'" George smiled and said, "it's Irish with a little SCOTCH in it." Aunt Nora burst in a loud laugh saying, "I've never known you George with just a 'LITTLE' Scotch in you!"

My favorite church hymns, "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelico," "Amazing Grace" and "Let Their Be Peace on Earth and, Let it Begin with ME."

My favorite, General Omar Bradley said, "We have discovered the secret of the ATOM BUT have forgotten the Sermon on the MOUNT."

I remember when my nephew Johnny and niece Elaine sat on one end of the see-saw. My Aunt Nora sat down on the other end and, I had to run for a stepladder to get Johnny and Elaine down.

Lt. LaSala dispatched Officer John Daigle to Malden Street to investigate a complaint that someone was playing a saxophone at 3 in the morning. Officer Daigle told the budding musician, "if you insist on playing that instrument you will have to accompany me." "No problem sir," was the reply, "what song do you wish to sing?"

I came home from the newspaper office and found a ransom note in my mailbox. It said, "Chipper, we have kidnapped your mother-in-law. Bring $500 by Thursday or, we are bringing her BACK Saturday." I sent my note, "How about sending you FIVE dollars a week?"

PERSONALITY WINNERS, Woodson Michel, Heather Oldman, Nicole Callahan, Mike Paige, Stephen Conlon, Colleen Cormier, Kara Dattilo, Christine Denaro, Janet Cummings and Samantha Crocker all of WOBURN.

Eric Feliz, Happy 100th; Casamiria Lameiras, Happy 50th Wedding Anniversary; Bob and Laura Lusk, Leslie Baden, Jill Kornetsky, Lindsey Suffredini, Chris Ferrara, Melissa Coppola and Bill and Jane Boivin all of BURLINGTON.

Scott Swiezynski, Rev. Rebecca Cohen, Russ and Lynne Graham, Kevin Phinney, Dennis Gramolini, Dick and Lois Midwood, Carole Rindone, Michael and Karol McLaughlin, and Ann Webster all of READING.

Jonathan Russell, Shaun Wallace, Julie Hincman, Jeffrey Gormady, Loraine Halligan, Gregg Higgins, Kevin Flight, John Casoli, Jim and Ginny Beebe, Don Young and Robert Brennan all of WAKEFIELD.

Sandra Angiolilli, John Ambrogne, Dona Ashton, Philip Azer, David Bishop, Lisa Bekkenhuis, Cory Beebe, Danielle Boyd, Colin Buckley and James Buckley all of STONEHAM.

Shaun Wallace, Amy Wallace, Phillip Campbell, Kathleen McDonald, John DiComandrea, Tom Grill, Courtney Kennedy, Michael DeLulis, Jimmy and Betsy Geary and Atty. Peter and Donna Aloisi all of LYNNFIELD.

Leann Bento, Maureen Rounds, Kevin Considine, Christina Micele, Jamie Pote, Kathryn Deislinger, Michael Berian, Ashley Blackburn, James Campbell and Lesley Cannon all of WILMINGTON.

Joan Coffill, Jack Greene, Joe and Dianna Veno, Lauri Miranti, Ann Eames, Matthew

McRae, Dr. William Butler, Richard Chen, Heather Bastian and Chris Beaudoin all of NORTH READING.

DREAMBOATS, Michelle Baker of WILMINGTON, Courtney Beals of STONEHAM, Catherine Duffett of WOBURN, Karen Boland of NORTH READING.

SUPERSTARS, Liz Nadeau of WOBURN; Ed Baratta of WINCHESTER, Dennis DiCicco of STONEHAM and Julie McLaughlin of READING, Diane Hiden of BURLINGTON.

I was on as many Naval Vessels as there are letters in the alphabet. Starting with the letter "A" -The Atka an Ice Breaker and up to and including the, "Yosemite," a destroyer tender. Folks, nations ought to settle their differences the way sailors did aboard ships. A boxing ring was set up on the fantail of the ship and, the two antagonists would go at it for three TWO Minute rounds. They threw every punch they could at each other-THEN-it was all over as they shook hands.

Folks, a Ship, Family or Nation cannot survive or long endure with members constantly fighting among themselves. So-with this example in mind, how about setting up a boxing ring on the State House Lawn?

Maybe in a City Council Chamber or Town Meeting Nights? Hey, it worked for the U.S. Navy.

Hunters will probably hate me for this, "Hunting for survival is one thing-BUT-hunting for the sheer joy of 'killing' well, that's something else. I wonder if, Bear, Deer or Moose were trained to shoot back, how some of those 'BRAVE' Hunters would like it?"

This "Chip" is only for the Young at Heart. "O-HI-O, HA-WA-IA. Why did DELLA-WARE a NEW JERSEY? I-DA-HO but, AL-ASKA."

Folks, the worst invention that I can think of is, "Paper Flowers." If the sentiment is sincere, then-even ONE little living ROSE is better than a bushel of paper flowers. Truthfully Folks, how would you like to be invited to a dinner and have it served on paper plates with plastic knives, spoons and forks?

Folks, looks at an apple seed-a potential tree. Look at most trees in the winter, leafless and barren like so many STICKS in the air. But, in another Season they will be in FULL bloom, again and, THAT will be another reason to stretch our arms out wide and say, "Oh Lord how great Thou Art."

Safety Town still has openings

Openings remain for youngsters to participate in Burlington Mall's 28th Annual Safety Town Program, to be conducted in the mall parking area, near Sears Auto Center, August 17-21 and August 24-28. Safety Town is a child-sized town, complete with buildings, crosswalks, street signs and traffic signals, where children entering kindergarten and first grade this fall are taught bicycle, auto, school bus and pedestrian safety in a controlled traffic situation.

Burlington Police Officers Paul Anderson and Thomas Fournier, will teach the children how to conduct themselves in traffic situations and the correct way to get on and off a school bus. Children completing the one-hour class will be presented with diplomas and safety booklets.

Safety Town is free and consists of a single one-hour class. Classes are scheduled at 10 am and 11 am., August 17-21 and August 24-28. The class is open to all area children, who will enter kindergarten or first grade this September. Class size is limited and students are accepted with bike helmets, on a first-come, first-served, pre-registration basis.

Parents who wish to register their children in a free class are asked to call the Burlington Mall Office at 272-8667, Monday through Friday from 9 am to 5 pm, as soon as possible.

Summer fun for kids at resource center

If you're looking for easy, fun and inexpensive summertime activities for the kids in your life, NCECP can help you out. Summertime can be an excellent time to reconnect with individual creativity as well as deepen our understanding of the natural world. And today's kids care deeply about the environment and are extremely innovative.

With that in mind, The National Coalition for Educational and Cultural Programs (NCECP), a local nonprofit organization benefiting area children, parents, educators, and caregivers is promoting a special summer program at their Community Resource Recycle Center located at 53 Central Street, Stoneham.

Every Tuesday during July and August, the CRC will be open from 9 am - 4 pm. The CRC is also open by appointment for neighborhood, camp, and day-care field trips. For a $3 donation, visitors can select a grocery bag stuffed with all kinds of materials for hours of summer fun at home.

The wide variety of clean, safe, recycled items includes; plastics, papers, mylars, fabric, ribbons, card board, plant pots, stickers, wood scraps and much more to create sand and water toys, safe bug collectors, bird feeders, bubble blowers, kites, jewelry, mobiles, games, the possibilities are limited only by your imagination.

In addition to the bag full of "possibilities", each creator will receive a free "BE GREEN-HELP THE EARTH LIVE" bumper sticker (while quantities last) courtesy of Annie's Homegrown, Inc. So do the earth a favor, and yourself, too, by creating some glorious treasures from trash. Please also consider donating your picnic and cookout redeemable cans and bottles to NCECP. Proceeds help offset the cost of ongoing community projects. Questions may be directed by phone or FAX to NCECP at 781-279-4658.

"A Little Bit of Italy in your own Back Yard!"

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

www.stoneham-online.com

"A look at Stoneham's downtown may give some a sense of déjà vu," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The scene, apart from the latest automobiles, harks back to the 50's and 60's."

"Stoneham, however, is coming around in terms of modernization. Plans for a new common and parking lot are under way; the taxpayers have taken on a $40 million school building project; and the town has set its sights on opening Spot Pond to the public for recreation use."

"At present, one of the more exciting moves in the town has come in the form of a web - an internet web-site, that is."

"Patrick Hindle, a Dinanno Road resident, was the driving force in the establishment of the Stoneham web-site."

"I kind of took this on a volunteer basis," Hindle said. "I do it on the side for companies - creating web-sites - so I wanted to do the same (for the town)."

"About a year ago, Hindle approached Selectman Cosmo Ciccarello and pitched the informational web-site idea to him. Ciccarello recommended that Hindle speak with Town Administrator Tom Cicatelli about the link to this latest trend."

"After doing so and receiving approval for his idea, Hindle got to work and built the site. He said he spent two to three hours a few days a week for three months and had to create approximately 75 files in order to complete the project."

"Hindle works at MIT's Center for Space Research where he is a project manager and quality engineer. In the past few years, however, he has built a knowledge of the internet and built sites for MIT for some of

On the web, through the forest and in process their projects.

"He recently started up his own company, called Innovative Internet Solutions which establishes web-sites for businesses. The town's page was one of the company's first and the price tag (the service was donated) was right for the town...."

Stewardship in North Reading

"The Massachusetts Forest Stewardship Program has granted $1,170 to the Conservation Commission for the completion of the Swan Pond Conservation Land Stewardship Plan," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"This area contains 170 acres of Conservation Commission land at Swan Pond."

"The ConCom is responsible for encouraging public input into the planning process through a public meeting and site walk. The commission must also hire a consulting forester to complete the stewardship and will be responsible for mapping the wetland areas within the project boundaries."

"A project monitor will provide stewardship materials as needed, review a preliminary draft of the stewardship plan, and review a final draft of the plan."

"The time line of the project is July 1, 1998 to January 15, 1999. The perimeter and property line compilation began July 1 while the draft stewardship plan is due October 1 with the final stewardship plan to follow by December 31 and the final report is due to the project monitor by January 15."

"The town will be paid $500 upon submission of the draft stewardship plan and the balance of $670 will be paid when the final report is approved by the project manager."

Just a Second...

"The Planning Board recently voted unanimously to approve site plans for renovations of two Second Avenue buildings that were originally part of a Planned Development District," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Town Meeting voted in June 1996 to approve the PDD for the Nordblom Co. It has since chosen to let the PDD lapse, which is the result after two years if an effort is not made to develop the site."

"The PDD encompassed 12 acres. Nordblom has a conditional sale agreement with Candlewood Suites Hotel for 3.5

acres of the site.

"Candlewood has plans for a 75,000 square-foot, 140 unit hotel for that location. It would comprise four stories."

"The remainder of the property consists of buildings at 16-22 Second Ave. and 12-14 Second Ave, which will be renovated."

"Nordblom Vice President Stephen Logan told the Planning Board that the present buildings, each consisting of 27,000 square feet, 'will be taken down to steel and completely rebuilt.'"

"It would be a typical rehab of what we have been doing at Northwest Park," said Logan, who added that 'both buildings are closely tied together.'"

"Both will be used for office space, Logan said, and will be 'the same buildings, same footprints' with no additional square footage...."

Olympic Reunion

and his two children Michelle (Simler 31) and Jason, 29, moved after his late wife Anne (Sheldon) succumbed to Cancer.

It was the occasion of Jason's wedding in Switzerland that brought the family together for a recent reunion. At the same time, they traveled to the Hockey Hall of Fame located in the International Olympic's Museum on "beautiful Lake Geneva in Ouchy, Lausanne, Switzerland."

The Museum, and the Hall are located on a beautifully landscaped campus on a rolling hillside in the Alps overlooking the Lake. The landscaping includes a collection of sculptures depicting several of the sports and their participants that are included in the Summer and Winter Olympic Games.

One of the sculpture pieces is that of a gun with its barrel tied into a knot. This depicts the theme of non-violence that is what the Olympics stand for throughout the world.

The site received an award in 1995 for its landscaping and sculpture.

Palmer brought his guests from the United States to the site for the induction of former West Point Hockey Coach Jack Riley, now a resident of Marston Mills on Cape Cod, into the Hall of Fame. Riley and Palmer had been tied closely together during the latter's hockey playing days under Riley at West Point.

Although they have stayed in touch, the visit between the two was a reunion after some 40 years since they had played together.

Carole Sheldon recalls that Palmer, who was raised in the Junction part of Wakefield, was a 1955 graduate of Wakefield Memorial High School and a 1959 graduate of the Point.

"He was an outstanding goalie for Wakefield High," Carole recalled, "where he played on the team with his brother, Neil."

Robert Sheldon noted that Palmer also played a number of other sports while in high school.

Carole noted another interesting event that happened during the trip to the Hockey Hall of Fame. Viktor Tikhonov, who was the coach of the Russian team that Palmer's team beat at Squaw Valley, as well as many other Russian teams over the years, was also inducted into the Hall of Fame at the same time as Riley who is originally from the Greater Boston area.

Robert said that 33 people from all over the world were inducted during the impressive ceremonies. The list included Palmer's teammate, Jack McCarton, the goalie from the 1960 team.

According to Robert, Palmer still has the Gold Medal that he and his teammates won from the 1960 Games.

After graduating from West Point, Palmer honored his commitment to the Army and served his time in Germany. It was during that time that he and his wife were married and, after leaving the Army the couple stayed in Germany where Palmer became interested in international finance.

Palmer never played professional hockey but kept his amateur status strong by playing in the International League in Europe. At one point the senior Palmer and his son, Jason, played together on a championship team in the league.

However, hockey has not been the only sport that has kept Palmer in shape over the years, Robert said that he is an avid bicycle rider as well.

During a recent trip to the United States for a reunion, Palmer took the occasion to ride his bicycle from California to Massachusetts.

After the reunion trip Palmer grabbed his bicycle and did a tour of Ireland and is now in France on a bike tour. He regularly skis and bikes in Canada on an annual basis.

According to Carole, the exercise keeps Palmer, who sports a buzz style crew-cut, looking young and fit.

The reunion trip was a reason for celebration for many reasons. While they were visiting with Palmer, his mother-in-law Florence Sheldon celebrated her 91st birthday on May 30.

A few days later, Robert and Carole celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

Palmer also had the chance to catch up on old times with his brother Neil and his wife, Deanna, and with old friend Wakefield resident, David "Red" Maher.

SPORTS SHORTS

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Who were the first five men elected to the National Baseball Hall of Fame? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•When Wesleyan University starts its fall sports season shortly, there will be a number of local players on the squads. Here's a rundown, by sport:

Football: BURLINGTON'S MATT SHERBURNE, LYNNFIELD'S JOHN PASCUCCI, Men's Soccer: BURLINGTON'S PETER CZEREPAK.

The camp serves as an evaluator camp for the 1999 U.S. National Junior Team.

The players will be divided into two teams, and play National Under-20 teams from Finland, Sweden, and Switzerland in a week-long round robin tournament. Dymont and Pandolfo both attended the camp last year, while this will be Aufiero's first year there. Pandolfo is also headed to Boston University next fall.

•A number of locals are taking part in the Peoples Beach to Beacon 5K race to benefit the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Maine. They are: READING - WILLIAM MORGAN; WAKEFIELD - KELLY SEIBEL; WILMINGTON - ROBERT WILCOX; WOBURN - DAN CALLAHAN. CONNOR OTRA-DOVEC. JOHN LALLY. WILLIAM WEBSTER. AND MAUREEN WEBSTER.

•Need a clue or two to help solve the trivia mystery? One of the players is the great Ty Cobb.

•READING'S JON CIGNETTI had a fantastic trip to Europe recently, playing for the USA International baseball team. Cignetti, a 1993 Reading Memorial High School graduate, went 18 for 36 at the plate, hitting three home runs, five doubles and a triple while knocking in 17 runs. The games were played during a 10-day stint from July 3 to July 13 in Belgium and Holland, against Olympic competition that ranged from semi-professional to the Olympic level.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The five players, in order, are: Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, and Walter Johnson. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Items can also be faxed at 781-942-0884.

Avoid heat stroke in summer

By Dr. ELLEN PUTTER
New York University
School of Medicine

It's summer and the air is filled with the joyous sounds of children at play. From morning until night, children are chasing balls, capturing flags and playing tag. But this picture can turn grim if children play so hard and so long that they experience a condition called heat stroke.

Overheating occurs when people overexert themselves in very hot weather. Heat stroke takes place when the body's internal temperature rises high enough to damage itself. Although this is rare, heat stroke can cause imbalances in the body's electrolytes (or natural salts), shut down the kidneys, and cause shock or even death. Among those at greatest risk for heat stroke are the elderly, who are sensitive to heat and poor air quality, and children, who may not pay attention to signs that they are becoming overheated. Signs of extreme overheating include thirst, fatigue, flushed skin and feelings of dizziness.

At special risk are infants, toddlers and children with chronic illnesses, such as heart and lung problems or diabetes.

Infants and toddlers are especially sensitive to the sun because the surface area of their heads is large, relative to the rest of their bodies. Because of this greater surface area, their heads — if exposed to the sun — can absorb harmful amounts of heat. Therefore, infants and toddlers should always wear hats when they go outside in hot, sunny weather. Very young children are also at risk for heat stroke because they may not be able to verbalize their need for water. Remember to provide them with plenty of liquids.

The good news is that heat stroke is almost entirely preventable. To protect your children this summer, follow these simple common-sense precautions:

— Never leave children locked inside an unattended car, even for a few minutes. Although this can be dangerous any time, it can quickly turn deadly when the weather is hot. Almost every summer, there are news reports of children dying of heat or suffocation after being locked inside a car and forgotten. Temperatures inside a parked car can reach as high as 150 degrees F in the summer.

— Make sure children get plenty of fluids. Send them to camp with a water bottle. Or, if they're playing in the back yard, call frequent breaks for drinks. Serve children sports drinks to replace electrolytes that may be lost due to excessive sweating, or serve food with some added salt, which can also replace electrolytes lost through sweat.

— Give children opportunities to cool off in water. Set up sprinklers, visit swimming pools or lakes, set up wading pools, or just use the shower. Immersing oneself in cold — but not icy — water is a good way to cool the body down.

— Have children play in shady areas, and make sure they take time out to rest.

— In times of extreme heat, allow children to cool off in air conditioning. If your home is not air-conditioned, use fans to circulate the air or visit movie theaters, restaurants or stores that are air-conditioned.

— Have children dress in light-colored clothes, which absorb less heat than dark colors. Avoid clothes made of synthetic fibers. Sweating is the body's natural way of cooling down. Clothing made of natural fibers allows the body to cool properly.

Brain snacks a novel idea

Looking for a great way to inspire your child? How about a thought-provoking message tucked into lunch box, school bag or posted on the refrigerator as a thought for the day?

Will it work? Ask the mother-and-daughter team who have created a unique booklet, "Brain Snacks, Food for the Growing Minds".

It all began last fall when 9 year old Abrah Shapiro started receiving little notes from her mom tucked into her school lunch box. "I felt really special getting notes from my mom," Abrah says. She enjoyed reading the little messages and pondering over the lessons she was learning. She memorized some and began saving all of them in her computer.

Realizing that the idea could be shared with countless others, they went to work creating their own inspiring booklet, collecting more words of wisdom from a variety of sources.

This unique booklet is filled with words of wisdom designed to inspire, motivate and instill good old-fashioned basic values. The novel format allows you to choose just the right message, tear it off at the perforation and then put it in a fun place for your child to discover.

"Brain Snacks" can be ordered for $5.95 (plus shipping). You can order on the Internet at www.brainsnacks.com. There's also a toll-free number - 1-888-44SNACK (1-888-447-6225). "Brain Snacks" can also be found at Crown Books.

"The Mask of Zorro" action filled fun

"THE MASK OF ZORRO"
GRADE: ***

Review: Antonio Banderas and Anthony Hopkins combine to bring the legend in black leather back to life on the big screen in this fun and action-filled summer showcase.

Hopkins plays Zorro at the start of the film, until his wife is killed by his archrival, who then steals his very young daughter. Hopkins character gives up his will to fight for the people, and 20 years pass without an appearance by Zorro.

Enter Banderas, who teams up with his brother to become thieves years after meeting Zorro when they were young. His brother his killed by soldiers, and Banderas wants revenge. Hopkins agrees to teach him the ways of Zorro, and he inherits the mask to fight against a plot hatched by a former Governor to buy California from Santa Anna using forged gold.

Banderas is good as Zorro, though Hopkins brings more of a personality to the role in the first few minutes of the movie.

The action scenes are very well choreographed, and the swordfights are fun to watch, reminding us of what once constituted screen violence, instead of the shoot-em-up pictures which Hollywood turns out these days.

Rated: R (Mature themes, violence)

Length: 126 minutes

SHORTTAKES
MOVIE: "THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT MARY"

GRADE: ***

Review: This movie is the funniest, laugh-till-it-hurts comedy to come around in a long time, and is sure to leave you with tears in your eyes once the house lights come up. Having said that, here's a warning: this brand of comedy isn't for everyone.

The Farrelly brothers, Bobby and Peter (who were responsible for hits like 'Dumb and Dumber' and 'Kingpin') have done it again, taking a situation comedy and pushing the limits of both comedy and decency. You'll find yourself laughing at many of the sight gags in spite of yourself, even though many of them seem to have jumped off the pages of a 'Truly Tasteless' joke book.

Ben Stiller is very funny as a man who still hasn't lost his feelings for a girl he had one (almost) date with in high school, and Cameron Diaz (who plays the title character Mary) puts in a very good performance as the object of his affection. Matt Dillon is also good as a sleazy private eye, who ends up falling for Diaz's character as well.

Overall, the movie is very funny, but some people may find the humor a bit too obnoxious for their taste.

Rated: R

Length: 96 minutes

MOVIE: "LETHAL WEAPON 4"
GRADE: ***

Review: The biggest question one has when walking out of the theater after seeing this film is, 'Why?'

It's minutely interesting to see the characters of Martin Riggs and Roger Murtaugh (played once again by Mel Gibson and Danny Glover) deal with the issues of fatherhood and grandfatherhood, respectively, but the plotline does little else with them that is innovative or new.

Rene Russo and Joe Pesci are back to reprise their roles in a plotline that involves counterfeit Chinese money and smuggling in Chinese workers for slave labor, but both are given very little to work with in the plot. Russo is carrying Gibson's baby, and the question of whether or not they should get married is carried from the opening sequence until the closing credits.

Chris Rock steals the film as Murtaugh's new son-in-law, and the stunts are once again top notch, as in the three previous installments of this series. It's great to see the fun that Gibson and Glover have together on screen, but unless the writers can come up with a better storyline, any ideas for "Lethal Weapon 5" should be left on the

the local Board over the past several years, Johnson said the Club has moved forward with an expanded program that must be sustained by a successful triennial campaign....

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Three cheers for six towns

Wishes granted in Reading and Stoneham

"Schools in Reading and Stoneham received arts grants awards totalling $1,388," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The awards will be used for a variety of arts activities in the schools. Sen. Richard R. Tisei (R-3rd Middlesex) announced the awards recently, which come from the Massachusetts Cultural Council and are part of the Event & Residency Program.

"These modest grants will make all the difference for these schools in their experience of plays and dance," said Senator Tisei. 'Arts improve our quality of life and show children that art is an important part of their education.'

"In Reading, the Birch Meadow Elementary School will receive $325 for dance performances highlighting historical and cultural influences and the Arthur W. Coolidge Middle School will receive $499 for a performance of Shakespeare's 'Merchant of Venice' and a workshop.

"In Stoneham, Saint Patrick School will receive $250 for a dance performance highlighting African and European traditions and Stoneham Middle School will be treated to excerpts from Shakespeare.

"A little bit of money can go a long way in creating lifelong memories of theater and dance for young people," said Senator Tisei. "I'm glad the Massachusetts Cultural Council awarded these grants to these worthy programs."

"The Event & Residency Program provides grants to schools and cultural organizations to bring artists into schools for classroom events or residencies."

Partners named in Lynnfield, North Reading and Reading

"The Lynnfield Public School system has received an early childhood grant in collaboration with North Reading and Reading to provide services to preschool children," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The Massachusetts Department of Education awarded the $117,823 Community Partnership for Children Grant.

"The purpose of this grant is to provide comprehensive, high-quality programs for preschool-aged children and their families," said Margery Daniels, Lynnfield's director of special services. 'One of the nicest things about this endeavor is we're doing planning now across three communities. We're bringing in daycare providers, private preschool providers and really all agencies that are interested in the education of young children.'

"The grant will be used for consultations from specialists, staff training, speakers, materials and stipends toward the 18-month National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) accreditation process for preschool programs. Without this accreditation, Massachusetts preschools will not be eligible for any funding from the state other than allocation grants.

"The grant will also fund childcare subsidies, providing 18 slots on a sliding-scale cost to qualified families."

Goals reached in Woburn

"Glenn Johnson, chairman of the Boys and Girls Club Tenth Triennial 'Campaign for Kids' reports the Campaign Executive Committee has secured pledges totaling $248,000 or 62 percent of the club's $400,000 goal," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

The House of the Week

Country-contemporary blend

The Oakheart is a harmonious blend of country and contemporary.

Multiple roof lines, a half-round window and a stepped chimney cap provide contemporary touches, while the oval glass in the door and the wrap-around porch exude a homey, country flavor.

Inside, the layout is more contemporary than old-fashioned. The living room left of the foyer, is far brighter than a traditional parlor. A wide window bay expands this room, and more light spills in through a side window.

The great room ceiling is a full two stories high. Windows flank the broad-hearted masonry fireplace, and double columns grace both sides of the arch leading into the vaulted, skylit dining room. Sliders at the rear open onto a patio that's also accessible from the richly glassed, high-ceilinged, octagonal nook.

Sink, stove and refrigerator cluster in an efficient triangle. The work island adds counter space, and a small powder room is just around the corner. Storage is tucked under the stairway, and two more closets are across the hall. Laundry appliances are mere steps away, in a utility room that connects with the three-car garage. This space is ideal for dealing with muddy paws and human foot gear.

Amenities in the Oakheart vaulted master suite include skylights, a sitting bay, covered patio, huge walk-in closet, and a bathroom with dual vanity, spa tub and separate shower.

At the top of the stairs is a large loft with a built-in desk and shelves. Two bedrooms share one bathroom. The vaulted front bedroom, equipped with its own private bathroom, could be used as guest room.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402.

Please specify the Oakheart 10-400 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 250 homes is available for $12.

For more information, call (800) 634-0123.

Make an attractive mortarless patio

Making an attractive mortarless walkway or patio is easy using bricks, concrete pavers or flagstones.

When used for such projects, bricks or concrete pavers are laid in sand on a flat, firm base and anchored with an edging. This method, called flexible paving, is easy both to install and repair.

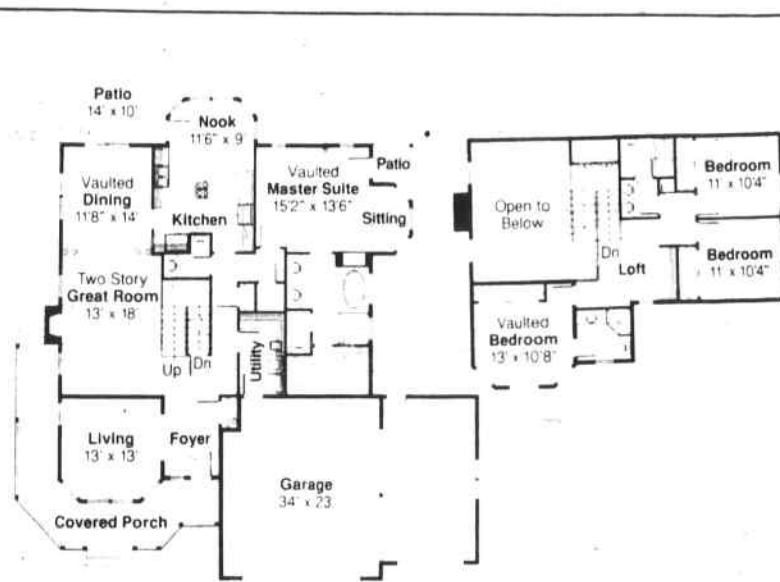

Flagstone, laid in sand, is also popular for flexible paving. Because no edging is required, it is easier to lay out an area for flagstone than for bricks or concrete pavers. In addition, you can space the sand joints irregularly. But you must make sure that the flagstones are well supported underneath; otherwise, they can break when stepped on. With sandy, well drained soil in areas where freezing seldom occurs, the site should be excavated to the depth of the paving plus 2 inches for a bed of tamped sand, which will keep the paving from shifting. With other soils and in cold climates, excavate 4 inches deeper to add a layer of tamped gravel beneath the sand. The gravel permits drainage and helps prevent masonry from being pushed upward when the ground alternately freezes and thaws.

When laying out a project, base its shape on the dimensions of the paving units in order to minimize cutting.

You can cut bricks and flagstones fairly easily by hand, using a hammer and a wide chisel called a brick set. But you will need to rent a special splitter to cut pavers. However, pavers that create special patterns usually come with half blocks for filling in outside edges.

The most crucial step in laying flexible paving is site

Realtor Day On The Hill

The Eastern Middlesex Association of REALTORS (EMAR) was recently represented at "REALTOR Day On The Hill" at the State House in Boston. Ten members of EMAR met with various representatives and political figures, which featured keynote speaker Governor Paul Cellucci, who is shown pictured with EMAR President Beverlee Vidoli. Issues discussed at "REALTOR Day On The Hill" included transfer tax, Roth IRAs, capital gains, protecting private property rights, environmental effects, and more.

EMAR's presence at "REALTOR Day On The Hill" is one of many events that serves to enforce one of the goals of the Association - education. Staying on top of issues vital to not only REALTORS, but the public they assist, further enhance EMAR's abilities as an organization.

In addition to educating members, The Eastern Middlesex Association of REALTORS primarily focuses on community service. A nonprofit REALTORS' organization, EMAR is actively involved in aiding various charitable organizations and events. Among the recent organizations benefiting from EMAR's dedicated assistance and Angels Flight of New England, The Stoneham Vietnam Veteran's Moving Wall Memorial Committee, and the Adopt-A-Family program, to name a few. EMAR is currently lending their powerful support to a fundraising effort run by VETS PLUS (made up of members of the former Stoneham Vietnam Veteran's Moving Wall Memorial Committee).

The Eastern Middlesex Association of REALTORS is located at 68-72 Main Street in Reading, a new facility for the organization, which will soon house classes for REALTORS. For more information about EMAR or any of their upcoming events, please call 781-944-6006.

Water problem in a slab house

Q. My house is built on a concrete slab. About 5 years ago after a long hard rain or sudden deluge, we began to get water seeping under the slab and into the floor heating ducts. Water enters the ducts on the side where the ground slopes upward, then fills all the other ducts. Is there any way to stop this water from entering the house?

A. The best way to control the problem is to intercept the water before it gets under the slab and direct it away from the house. But, before you go to the expense of putting in a subsurface drainage system, check other possible solutions that are less expensive.

The ground immediately adjacent to the house should be graded so it slopes away from the foundation. There should be 8 inches minimum distance between the top of the foundation where the sills rest and the grade level. The 8-inch space will prevent rain from splashing up, soaking the wood and possibly rotting the structure. The down slope stops water preparation. A firm and flat site minimizes settling. As a rule, it is easier to excavate the entire site to the depth required and then install the edging and paving.

Take extra time to make sure that the soil or gravel bed is tamped and level.

You can tamp small areas with a hand tamper - a 1-foot square of plywood nailed to the bottom of a 4 x 4. For best results, tamp large areas with a plate vibrator, a motor-powered tool that you can rent. Plate vibrators are noisy; be sure to wear ear protectors.

For edging, use pressure-treated lumber or wooden landscaping ties anchored with stakes or spikes. Alternatively, you can use strips of polyvinyl chloride (PVC), anchored with metal spikes. Or you can dig a narrow ditch and add an edging of bricks. To minimize the effects of frost heave, dig the ditch 2 inches deeper than the bricks and pour in a layer of gravel before placing the bricks.

To reduce the chance of tripping over wood or PVC edging, place the top surface 1/2 inch below the paving. The paving will settle more than the edging, and the two will eventually be level.

When paving with flagstones, first fit as many uncut stones together as possible to minimize the amount of shaping you have to do. Place flagstones with their more level and attractive side up. Avoid using small stones; they tend to sink into the ground or tip when stepped on.

Until the paving is laid, protect the sand bed from rain either by covering the sand with plastic sheeting when you have finished for the day, or by spreading the sand in 10-square-foot areas just before installing the paving. Stay off the sand bed by working from outside the perimeter or by kneeling on previously laid sections.

from collecting around the foundation, and it also forms a swale, or depression, to carry surface water away from the house. To accomplish this, you may have to move quite a lot of earth but it may be easier than installing a drainage system.

If you do not have gutters to channel roof rain runoff away from the house, they should be installed. If you have gutters, make sure the down-spout bases extend far enough away from the foundation or install splash blocks to prevent rain from collecting there.

If surface water is not the cause of your problem, you will have to intercept the sub-surface water before it gets to the foundation. This can be done by installing a curtain drain parallel to the house on the slope that runs toward the house.

With fall semester just over the horizon, college students everywhere are being faced with a frightening dilemma—living for nine months with a dull, drab dorm room.

Don't despair, with some cre-changes the look of any dorm room. Dirty, peeling walls look clean and new after a few coats of paint. Use a light, rather than dark color. Sometimes a beautiful forest green will actually make a room look smaller. To so students should check with their resident assistant to find out what type of painting is allowed.

One final touch that Smith suggested is adding a window valance. "Most colleges and universities will give you the measurements of the window if you call before moving into the dorm. That way you can go ahead and purchase a valance or blind for the window. It doesn't seem like much, but that one little touch will really change a dorm room."

ativity and a few household items, students can transform their cinder block cell into an attractive and comfortable home away from home without spending a lot of time and money.

One of the biggest problems with dorm rooms is their size. Most rooms are tiny and don't provide much storage space for things like sheets and towels, books and school supplies. A simple place to store these extra items is in a large, rubber garage can disguised as a table. Replacing the lid with a 30 inch laminated pine table top and place it on top of the garage can. When the wooden top is painted or covered with a piece of bright fabric, it's transformed into a useful table, as well as the intended storage container. Budget conscious students living in apartments can buy two garbage cans and a larger table-top to replace the lids. This makes the storage space even larger and creates a functional desk.

Most dorm rooms are not only small, but also drab and dull. Inexpensive contact paper can be used in several ways to jazz up a room with bright designs and color. Many times college students have limited space in a room, especially if they are sharing with a roommate, and are forced to leave items like books and photo albums in moving boxes. Students can cover these regular packing boxes with contact paper and create a colorful storage system that lends life to an ordinary room. Contact paper can also be used on shelves, counters and desktops.

add color to the walls, mix your favorite color latex paint with water. Make sure the mixture is thin enough to use in a simple spray bottle. Test the solution on a piece of poster board leaning against the wall you want to "spray paint." Spray the board with the paint and water mixture, using a consistent sweeping motion for a streak of the desired length. Make sure the paint doesn't run down the board. For a really colorful wall, spray another color (using a separate spray bottle) on top of the first.

Sponge painting also can be used on anything such as walls and window frames. For sponge painting, the mixture of water and latex paint needs to be a little thicker than the mixture for spray bottle painting. Dip the sponge into the mixture and
